West Virginia Flood Teams Report Death Toll Now 103

MAN, W. Va. (AP) — National Guardsmen continued today to comb the wreckage of coal camps in Buffalo Creek hollow for the bodies of additional victims of the churning flood that raged down the hollow Feb. 26.

Of 16 towns has already turned up 103 bodies. Guard officers estimate they have checked more than 70 per cent of the wreckage, but they decline to predict when their job will be completed.

Thus far, more than 90 bodies have been positively identified in the temporary morgue set up in the auditorium of a grade school here.

Price Board Sees Need For Utility Rate Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Price Commission has decided strong evidence exists that electric and telephone firms must be granted large rate increases to maintain service, a staff member says.

But, he added, the commission has not ruled out other changes in utility regulations, which presently require existing regulatory agencies to grant only the lowest rate increases that will guarantee continued service.

The commission debates the politically sensitive issue this week, working against a deadline of next Friday when its 30-day freeze of utility rates is scheduled to end.

The commission last month froze all rates of privately owned utilities, including railroads, airlines and regulated truckers, as well as electric, gas, telephone and telegraph companies. It held four days of public hearings on the subject and discussed the matter in general terms last Tuesday.

"They concluded they had seen substantial evidence that large percentage increases are needed if there is to be continued service in this country," Price Commission counsel Michael Lang said in an interview. He said he referred to the "fixed" utilities, meaning electric, gas, telephone and telegraph companies.

Lang speculated the freeze would end as scheduled, even if the commission has not drafted new regulations. The commission would have until March 25 to order rollbacks of increases that went into effect and later were found out of line with new policy.

Present regulations generally say existing government regulatory agencies retain authority over utilities, but must make sure those increases granted are the minimum required to maintain service.

The freeze was ordered because the commission decided firm guidelines are needed for the regulatory bodies. Lang said the commissioners have not yet rejected any of the alternatives proposed during hearings.

One such proposal almost certainly would stimulate competition and lower rates among railroads, airlines and truckers, but might force less-efficient ones into bankruptcy or merger.

This proposal would require each firm be granted only the lowest rate increase it could justify by its own cost increases, rather than the lowest justified by some industry-wide average as in present practice.

Thus, the most efficient firms would get increases lower than the present industry-wide average rate increases, and would in turn act as a competitive brake on other firms.

Lang said that the commission also is considering a proposal to deny rate increases to electric companies that promote increased use of power.

County Solons Ask State For Election Funds

Pickaway County Commissioners today passed a resolution petitioning the Ohio Legislature to reimburse the county for added election expenses of paper ballots for the May presidential primary.

The County Board of Elections has asked for an additional $22,000 to conduct the May primary because paper ballots will be required to list all the delegates representing Democratic presidential candidates. If the delegates could be removed from the ballot and the name of the presidential candidate only listed, the paper ballots would not be necessary.

However, Ohio law provides the delegates' names be on the ballot. Legislation proposed by Secretary of State Ted Brown which would permit listing only of the presidential candidate's names never got out of the senate committee to which it was assigned.

Pickaway County Commissioners Dick T. Tootle, Wayne Hines and Charles Morris believe the requirement will place an unnecessary additional burden on the budget. Since all available funds were budgeted at the beginning of the year, the commissioners must ask other departments to return money so it can be reallocated to the Board of Elections.

Commissioners expressed the opinion today that if all counties with voting machines would take the same action they did today the General Assembly would be forced to act on legislation to permit voting for presidential convention delegates by a vote for the candidate they are pledged to represent.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to rule on the government's power to classify its documents as secret.

The test case, accepted for review next term, concerns nine reports and letters prepared for President Nixon on the Cannikin underground nuclear test.

Last October, Judges Harold Leventhal and Charles Fahy of the U.S. Circuit Court here cleared the way for the possible public release of some of the documents.

At issue is the government policy of classifying all documents in a particular file as "secret" or "top secret" if one of them contains material considered sensitive.

Ruling in a suit brought by Rep. Patsy T. Mink, D-Hawaii, and 32 other members of Congress, Leventhal and Fahy ordered U.S. District Court Judge George Hart Jr. to examine the Cannikin papers and determine which of them "are separable from the secret remainder."

The Justice Department said in appealing that this "judicial inquiry into matters which are peculiarly within the province of the executive" is inconsistent with provisions of the Freedom of Information Act of 1970.

That law generally makes government records available to the public, but has several exceptions, including material the executive branch finds should be kept secret "in the interest of the national defense or foreign policy."

Bayh Predicts Muskie Victory

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., who withdrew from the contest for the Democratic nomination for president, said today he feels Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine will win the New Hampshire Democratic presidential primary.

But Bayh declined to join with the four Indiana Democratic Congressmen who endorsed Muskie.

"I haven't made a final determination of who I am going to endorse," he said in a news conference here today.

Secretary Of State Set To Grab Spotlight Tuesday

By LEWIS GULICK
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers steps into the public limelight Tuesday, and for many of his State Department colleagues it is not a moment too soon.

A massive annual foreign-policy report will be issued under Rogers' name, to be followed by his personal presentation of it at a Senate Foreign Relations Committee hearing Wednesday and to the House Foreign Affairs Committee next week.

Brown Wears Mao Button

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, says all he got were polite smiles when he walked into the Pentagon recently wearing a Mao button—an iridescent red disc with a gold profile of the Chinese leader.

Brown got the button from a reporter friend who was among newsmen who accompanied President Nixon on his recent trip.

He says the mild response to his button "attests to a change in the climate of the world."

Publicity for the secretary of State will be a welcome switch for those lower-ranking U.S. diplomats who fretted during President Nixon's China trip over the noted absence of their boss from much of the summit talk.

"Where's Rogers?" was a question posed in influence-conscious Washington with the front-page display of Nixon's historic meeting with Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Premier Chou En-lai was in the photo. So was presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger. But no secretary of State.

The question of Rogers' role in the China discussions kept popping up at the State Department's news briefings in Washington and spokesmen Charles Bray sought to fend off unfavorable comparisons.

"Secretaries of State do not ordinarily participate" in such chief-of-state gatherings as a matter of protocol, Bray said. He pointed out that Rogers met five times with his Chinese foreign-minister counterpart, Chi Peng-fei.

Bray noted that Chou called on Rogers for about an hour in Shanghai before the Americans left. "In all the summit meetings that Rogers has participated in this was the first time that a head of government had displayed this courtesy," Bray said.

Nonetheless, the smash impact of the public coverage of Nixon's journey—with the spotlight seldom pausing on Rogers—sunk deeply into the State Department's rank and file.

The relative fanfare for Kissinger added to the blow. From early in the Nixon administration, there has been controversy over whether the presidential national-security-affairs aide has eclipsed the secretary of State's role.

Blast, Building Collapse Kills 12 Persons

BARCELONA (AP) — Rescuers pulled 12 bodies from the debris of a 10-story apartment house early today after an explosion collapsed the structure. Police feared 20 or 30 more persons were trapped in the wreckage.

The 10-year-old building in a hilly residential section blew up while most of its 50 residents were asleep. Many of the apartment dwellers were believed to be Latin Americans.

The explosion was traced to the fourth floor, and City Engineer Esteban Rifa said he believed a gas leak was responsible.

Three hundred police, firemen and students from Barcelona University struggled with the debris, looking for the victims.

The blast blew out the walls of the building, and authorities said all 10 stories collapsed. Windows in nearby buildings were shattered.

Each of the 10 stories of the building contained one apartment, with most of them housing a family of four or more.

Bodies of several children were among the first recovered.

Muskie Lead Cut Down By McGovern

DURHAM, N.H. (AP) — The campaign for Tuesday's New Hampshire presidential primary moved into the home stretch with Sens. Edmund Muskie and George S. McGovern swapping claims over who was first to disclose political finance sources.

Muskie said he listed his contributors in 1970 but stopped when McGovern and other Democrats failed to follow. McGovern called the claim a farce. He asked Muskie to match his recent disclosure of all 1971 and 1972 contributors.

The issue proved the chief difference between the two senators on a 90-minute televised debate here Sunday night.

They were joined in the year's first campaign debate by the three other Democrats listed on Tuesday's primary ballot—Sen. Vance Hartke of Indiana, Mayor Samuel F. Yorty of Los Angeles and antipoverty worker Edward Coll of Hartford, Conn.

Muskie, from neighboring Maine, is favored to lead the field Tuesday, but political analysts will be watching his percentage. Early in the campaign, aides talked of 50 per cent as a minimum goal, but a poll published Sunday by the Boston Globe gave Muskie 42 per cent, McGovern 26 and other Democratic candidates a total of 12 per cent with 20 per cent (Continued on Page 14)

OSU Group Sets Cement Canoe Race

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If only they knew what their canoe would do, a group of Ohio State University students might not get that sinking feeling.

The group—students of civil engineering — will test the craft's mettle April 29 in an intercollegiate clash of very hard-shelled vessels. The canoes are made of cement.

The first concrete canoe was launched at the University of Illinois in 1970, but the Illinois' craft sank ingloriously during a race with Purdue University's cement canoe last spring.

Purdue will host Illinois and Ohio State in the April 29 race at Lafayette, Ind. Ohio State's entry is a 300-pound vessel with ribs and frame of steel bars less than one-quarter inch thick and a cement skin another quarter-inch thick.

"The weight is not that much of a problem," said Guernon Galimidi, a senior civil engineering student who heads Ohio State's concrete canoe project. "It is the design and the curvature."

Wooden canoes usually weigh about 60 pounds, and aluminum canoes about 120.

Galimidi noted the vessel Purdue used last spring weighed about 360 pounds.

"If Purdue is going to use the one they used last year," he mused, "we will appreciate it."

Russians Upgrade Strength Of Warsaw Pact With Planes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union is acting to strengthen the ability of its Communist European allies to move troops and war gear by air, U.S. intelligence sources report.

At the same time, U.S. sources said, the Russian-led Warsaw Pact nations are undertaking major improvement of their highway and rail networks, especially those connecting the Soviet Union with forward areas facing West Europe.

The moves reportedly were decided at a meeting of Warsaw Pact defense ministers last month. Besides Russia, active Warsaw Pact members are East Germany, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria.

The upgrading of Warsaw Pact military aid and ground-transport capabilities appears aimed at enhancing what Western military experts claim is a Communist quick-mobilization advantage over the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

This development comes at a time when NATO is trying to persuade the Soviet Union to start negotiations on balanced force reductions on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

According to the U.S. intelligence sources, the Warsaw Pact defense ministers agreed to creation of new military air-transport regiments in Poland, East Germany, Czechoslovakia and Hungary. Those regiments will come directly under the pact's high command, it was said.

The Russians are expected to supply their allies with four-engine AN12 medium transports for the new air units.

The new plan also calls for increasing the number of helicopters in East European air forces, which now can muster fewer than 250, according to Western estimates.

Another facet of the program involves improving military airfields throughout East Europe, U.S. intelligence sources said.

Mujib Back From Trip To Russia

DACCA (AP) — Prime Minister Mujibur Rahman returned to Bangladesh today from a five-day visit to the Soviet Union and said both countries have passed through armed revolution, and that "between the Bengalis and the Russians there is an identity of purpose."

While in Moscow Sheikh Mujib and Premier Alexei N. Kosygin concluded an extensive financial and technical agreement.

The details were sketched out Sunday by the Soviet news agency Tass, and although the dollar worth was not revealed, some diplomats in the Soviet capital called it "substantial."

The joint declaration said the Soviets will help in the reconstruction and development of the Bangladesh merchant and fishing fleet and the nation's railway lines, which were badly damaged during the nine-month civil war preceding independence last December.

The Soviets also promised that Soviet projects planned or under way in what was East Pakistan before independence will be carried on. These include an electrical equipment plant, a thermal power plant, radio stations and an offshore oil prospecting project.

Bomb Threat Hits Campus

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — The multi-story Chemistry Building on Indiana University's main campus was evacuated today following a bomb threat, campus security police said.

Telephone calls to several administrative offices said "several bombs" had been planted in the building, to go off between 11 a.m. and 11 p.m. EST.

The male caller warned that the bombs were of a type that would explode if moved, police reported.

He added that the building was being bombed because of chemistry research involving the Vietnam War.

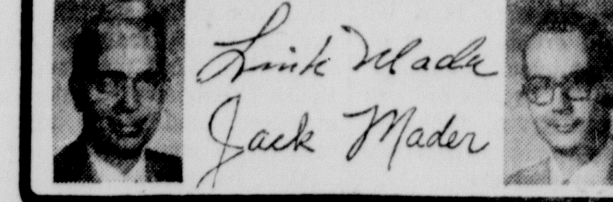

Campus security police took the threat seriously, evacuated the building, and said no students should return until 7 a.m. Tuesday. A police search was scheduled to begin at 1 p.m.

Open Letter

Dear Friends,
One of the penalties life exacts for love's fulfillment is the anguish of grief. It is a mixture of anxiety, anger and despair over the loss of a loved one, and the greater the love, the deeper the grief. Feelings of anger and guilt, as well as sorrow, must be confronted and surmounted by the bereaved if he is to regain normal emotional health.
Respectfully,

Environmental Report

By HUGH BARNHILL

Pickaway County Health Department

Two questions that are commonly asked are how do you determine that a well is unsafe and why is it unsafe?

Water samples are delivered immediately to the Ohio Department of Health Laboratory at Nelsonville. There, laboratory technicians perform tests to detect the presence of a bacteria called E Coli, generally known as coliform, which is found in the intestines of all warm-blooded animals.

Tests for specific disease organisms is far too complex for routine analysis.

Coliform bacteria are generally non-pathogenic. However, persons drinking water containing numbers of them have become ill with stomach cramps and diarrhea. Coliforms are good indicators of polluted water because they are found in large numbers in sewage, they are easy to detect, they will survive longer in polluted water than disease organisms and primarily because where one finds coliform, one may also suspect the presence of disease causing organisms.

Both coliform and disease causing organisms thrive in the same conditions and since coliforms are much easier to detect they are the organisms for which we test. However, the mere presence of the E Coli organism does not necessarily guarantee the presence of possible disease organisms because coliform can also come from soil and plants.

Specific tests for the coliform bacteria are based on their ability to ferment with lactose to produce gas and their ability to grow in oxygen.

Routine testing consists of two lab tests. The first is called the presumptive test. All samples received are treated this way. If they show positive, they are submitted to a second test which confirms the presence of coliform.

The presumptive test is performed by extracting a small part of the water sample and placing it in a large test tube containing an equally small amount of lactose solution. A small test tube is placed upside down in the large one containing the mixture and it is allowed to incubate for 48 hours. If coliform bacteria is present, the broth ferments to produce CO2 bubbles in the small tube. The presence of coliform is assumed and a second test, called confirmed testing, is performed.

Essentially, it is the same as the initial test only restrictive agents are added to the solution which prohibit the growth of any bacteria except coliform. If, after incubation, bubbles of gas are found the presence of coliform is confirmed and the water is determined unsafe for consumption.

Contamination of wells may result from a number of sources. Sometimes the well is located to near a sewage system or other source of contamination and contaminated ground water gets into the well through cracked casings. Often contaminated surface water may enter into the well through a faulty well cap. Insects, solvents or foreign material may enter if the cap or casing is not air tight.

Submerged inlets are also a possible source of contamination. This provides easy access of disease organisms to a portable water supply.

A good well should be of sufficient depth and located a sufficient distance from any possible source of contamination. The well casing must be watertight and the well cap securely fastened. These same basic principals also apply to cisterns, springs and dug wells. That is to protect the water supply from the entrance of certain contaminated water, insects, rodents and other foreign objects.

Kleindienst, in an appearance before the committee last week, said the Beard memo was false, and said he had taken no part in negotiating the ITT settlement.

Anderson and Mitchell are expected to testify Tuesday.

Dr. Liszka returned to the Washington area Sunday after treating Mrs. Beard, 53, at the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital in Denver, where she had been located by FBI agents Saturday and served with a subpoena.

Liszka and another physician said in Denver Sunday that Mrs. Beard is seriously ill with a heart ailment, coronary ischemia—a decrease in the blood supply to the heart muscle.

Ohio House Panel Takes Up State Lottery Proposal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Rules Committee this week will take up a state lottery resolution already passed by the Senate.

The measure has been blocked in the committee since last summer. Its chances of making it to the House floor for a vote are uncertain.

The resolution proposes a statewide election in November to decide whether to repeal Ohio's constitutional ban on a state lottery.

The measure was authored by Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma. House Minority Leader A. G. Lancione, D-30 Bellaire, reportedly prefers an alternative resolution by Rep. Tom Fries, D-86 Dayton.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market maintained sturdy gains today, with the Dow Jones industrial average poised just below its 1971 closing high. Trading was active.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was ahead 6.25 at 948.68.

Advancing issues outnumbered declining ones by more than 2 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

A growing number of analysts were bullish as the Dow industrial average headed toward the 950 mark. The last time the blue-chip indicator reached that closing peak was April 28, 1971, when it closed at 950.82. That was the first time the Dow had exceeded the 950 mark in 23 months.

Analysts said last week's strong advance and continued good economic news were buoying investor psychology.

Dear Abby: She Stays Home While Husband Plays

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband just turned 60. We have been married for 18 years. A year ago he took up with a widow he used to go with 40 years ago. She broke up with him when the doctor told him he would have to have his foot amputated. She said she couldn't bear the thought of marrying a man who couldn't dance. She married someone else and moved out of town.

When her husband died last year she moved back to town and made contact with my husband. That's when he started seeing her behind my back.

My husband took a week's vacation and he and this lady went off on a "honeymoon" together. Meanwhile I was home laying the bricks for our patio.

When I found all this out I told him to make a choice. Her or me. He said he "loved" me and was only having "fun" with her.

How much more "fun" should I let him have before I kick him out?

STAY-AT-HOME WIFE
DEAR STAY: I would say that he has had more "fun" than he's entitled to already. Tell him to shape up or ship out.

DEAR ABBY: Already I am worried about our next summer vacation.

My husband gets three weeks off, and he wants to take me and the children on a picture-taking trip to the Western Parks region, as he is a camera buff.

Our children are 7 and 10 and they do not get along with each other, so you can imagine what an automobile trip with them is like for three weeks.

I realize that my husband works hard all year and deserves the kind of vacation he enjoys, but I don't relish the idea of being referee for the kids while Father pursues his hobby which involves looking for places to photograph and endless waiting for perfect sun directions.

What is your advice?

PLANNING AHEAD
DEAR PLANNING: Why not compromise and spend part of your vacation doing this thing, and the other part doing whatever you prefer?

A suggestion: On long motor trips with kids who don't get along, instead of putting them both in the back seat, let one sit in front with Dad, and keep the other one in the back with you. Then switch.

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow in my seventies and have not been in a social swim for the past few years.

I was invited to a party at the home of a friend and was told that we would display cards.

I went and had a delightful time, until the hostess sat down at a card table and asked every guest for $2.50 to "defray expenses." (One guest had to borrow the money to pay as she didn't have much with her.)

I would like to know if this is the customary thing to do now. Sign me

BEHIND THE TIMES
DEAR BEHIND: "Dutch treat" parties are fine, when the guests are told in advance that it's "Dutch," but there's something rotten in Denmark when the hostess "surprises" her guests with a bill.

DEAR ABBY: I disagree with your advice to "New in Town," who served an outstanding dinner and was reluctant to give the recipe out.

You said, "Would your enjoyment be diminished if others enjoyed it, too? Share!"

I say, let "New in Town" keep her recipe to herself. She's not selfish. She's just an individual with a special talent. Must we share everything?

She should write that woman a note saying she doesn't want to offend her, but that recipe is a family secret and she prefers to keep it that way. And if she ever invites that woman to her home again, she should be sure to hide her recipe file.

Odd Pattern Of Weather Covers U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A jumbled jigsaw pattern of weather covered the nation today, with a storm in the Northeast, cold wave warnings for the Southeast and record high temperatures in the Southwest.

A storm off the coast of Maine spread snow and high winds to northeastern New England, with from two to four inches of new snow expected over parts of Maine.

Another disturbance over Lake Ontario dumped locally heavy snow over Western New York. Boonville, N.Y., reported receiving six inches in a five-hour period.

Cold and dry weather spread over much of the central and southeastern portions of the country, as Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina and parts of Florida braced for temperatures well below freezing.

In the Southwest, however, more warm and dry weather was expected.

Cloudy weather prevailed from the Pacific Northwest to the northern Great Plains, with rain along the Oregon and Washington coasts and scattered showers over the Plains.

Early morning temperatures ranged from 15 degrees below zero at Marquette, Mich., to 73 degrees at Key West, Fla.

Juries Join In Irving Book Probe

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal and county grand juries investigating author Clifford Irving's disputed autobiography of Howard Hughes will take joint action in the case this week, sources close to the proceedings say.

Irving met with federal and county prosecutors for 6½ hours Friday. The sources said it had been understood that the meeting would not be held until Irving was ready to "tell the whole story, from start to finish."

The 41-year-old novelist sold a manuscript to McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. last fall that he claimed was Hughes' autobiography.

Hughes denied in a court affidavit that he had authorized any book. After an investigation, Time, Inc., labeled the work a hoax and canceled plans to publish excerpts in Life magazine.

In a joint probe, the federal and New York County prosecutors have been focusing on different aspects of the case. The U.S. attorney's office says it has asked the federal grand jury to weigh charges of mail fraud conspiracy and use of interstate commerce to transport stolen money.

The county panel is considering perjury and grand larceny charges.

Irving has reportedly offered to cooperate with authorities if his wife, Edith, is not extradited to Switzerland, where she is wanted on forgery, embezzlement and larceny charges in connection with her handling of payments that McGraw-Hill intended for Hughes.

Gilligan's PR Man Modifies Job Image

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — J. Ronald Castell, hired to improve Gov. John Gilligan's public image says he has modified his ideas on what the job will entail.

When it was announced recently that he would fill a $24,960-per-year post on Gilligan's staff, Castell spoke frankly of his job:

"A guy who's been on the front pages for ten months talking about taxes is going to have a little tarnish on his halo," Castell said of Gilligan.

Now Castell is de-emphasizing his public relations role. He said in an interview that he would be "coordinating new programs."

Republican legislators and other observers have criticized Gilligan for hiring an image-polisher, but Castell now says his job will be temporary.

"I may be there three months or a year," he said. He begins work March 16.

Castell said he is on a leave of absence from his marketing job with City National Bank and probably would leave the governor's office before the end of Gilligan's term.

Steel Industry Healthier Than Year Ago, Report Says

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The steel industry is healthier than a year ago and some mills are building inventories against anticipated demand, Industry Week magazine said today.

The business weekly noted that "steel orders, output and shipments are rising apace with consumption." But it added that ordering is not as heavy and raw steel production is about 11 per cent lower than at this time last year. The magazine quoted an Eastern steelmaker as saying that customers are now buying to fill actual needs.

"At most steel facilities, orders are being entered at a rate that assures domestic mill shipments will reach the predicted level of eight million tons per month in March," the magazine said.

April orders from auto manufacturers will increase, adding: "There is belief that the auto companies have kept orders tight to maintain pressure on steelmakers for price concessions." Industry Week estimated American steel plants poured 2,450,000 net tons of raw metal in the week ended March 4, compared with 2,439,000 tons the previous week. The level for the same period last year was 2,773,000 tons.

The magazine's composite on

No. 1 heavy melting steel-making scrap rose to $35.67 per gross ton after being at $35.50 for two weeks. The composite is the highest in 11 months, Industry Week said.

Federal Delays On Teacher Pay To Be Discussed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Federal Pay Board delays in acting on teacher pay raises passed by the Ohio General Assembly were to be discussed here today by school superintendents of the 397 school districts affected.

Officials said a delegation of Ohio teachers would fly to Washington Tuesday to confer with Ohio congressmen on the Pay Board delay.

Martin Essex, state superintendent of schools, said today's meeting was aimed at determining how concerned the affected districts are over the problem. He said the school officials would "consider alternatives or attaining a positive response."

The pay raises would lift the state's minimum teacher salary from $5,200 to $5,800, retroactive to Jan. 1. The base pay is to rise to $6,400 in September.

Meeting Held By PCMHA

Pickaway County Mental Health Association met recently in St. Philip's Parish Hall with Mrs. Clarence Willoughby presiding.

Mrs. Lowell Toland reviewed contacts made during her latest regular visits to Columbus State Hospital as the association representative to Volunteer Service. As alternate representative to United Funds, Mrs. David Whaley explained reports given and policies established during the annual session she attended.

Ed Holmes, program chairman, stated that film strips, "Case Study on Joe," purchased by the Association were available for use by any interested group or individual. He explained the series of programs as arranged for meetings through the year. The March 27 meeting will be in the office of Probate Judge Guy Cline at the Court House. Guest speaker for this session will be Richard Bergman of Scioto Paint Valley Guidance Center. His topic will be "Trends in Mental Health."

There was a display of bulletins and brochures being distributed to interested individuals and groups.

Mrs. Willoughby announced that Alcoholics Anonymous was an organization for any interested citizen and met at the Lutheran Parish Hall each Friday. She read a letter from Veterans Hospital concerning the film, "Take A Fresh Look," that is to be shown March 29 courtesy of Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Reservations for this are to be made prior to March 21.

The highlight of the meeting was a talk by Lemar Clevenger, administrator of Pickaway County Program of Medical Retardation. Clevenger elaborated on tests used for measuring mental capacities and some of the current techniques being exercised to find potential abilities and help train such to fullest possible extent.

This included structured approaches for preventing, reinforcing and modifying varied adversities.

Wife Of Radio Personality Dead

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The coroner's office is expected to rule within a week on the death of Barbara Lee Douglas, 48, whose body was found Saturday in a car inside a closed garage near her Sagamore Hills home.

She was the wife of Cleveland radio-TV personality Alan Douglas.

Summit County sheriff's deputies said there were no indications of foul play and corner Dr. A. H. Kyriakides said early reports indicated she died from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Cleveland TV Performer Dies

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Gene Carroll, a show business performer the last 60 years and the host of the longest running television show in history, died Sunday in Boca Raton, Fla., Community Hospital. He was 74.

Carroll had entered the hospital after suffering a massive heart attack Thursday. He had spent the winter in nearby Hillsboro, Fla., at his second home.

The multi-faceted performer has hosted a local variety show on Cleveland television station WEWS since April, 1948. That's two months before Ed Sullivan began his variety show.

At least 90 per cent of Alfred Nobel's wealth came from peaceful uses of explosives he invented.

Pickpockets' Comeback

The ignoble art of the pickpocket, believed by some only a few years ago to be dying out, is apparently flourishing in Toronto. Two detectives say these light-fingered gentry earn as much as $1,000 a week — tax free, of course.

A few years ago, a New York detective, who had spent most of his career pursuing and apprehending pickpockets, recorded in his reminiscences that young crooks no longer found the business worth while. Few men carry gold pocket watches these days, once a favorite plunder of pickpockets, and wallets are more likely to be filled with credit cards than crisp bank notes.

Those who are slightly older can recall notices at places where crowds congregated which read: "Beware of pickpockets." Those who had something to lose furtively touched their wallet pockets to make sure the money was still there, showing watching crooks where to start work.

The great days of pocket-picking were the late eighteenth century when gentlemen carried jeweled fob watches and ladies and reticules with elaborate vinaigrettes and scent bottles.

The cry, "Stop, thief!" was one of the famous "cries of London" in those times. It is a left-handed compliment that pickpockets are active in Toronto and reap such a rich harvest. It is a sure sign that some people carry well-filled wallets.

Willing To Haggle

Among the nations which still owe the United States large sums for lend-lease provided during World War II is the Soviet Union. It has one of the largest debts — officially listed at $10.6 billion at the end of the lend-lease program.

That sum long ago was reduced considerably by forgiveness on the part of the U.S. When talks between the two countries on the subject of repayment broke off 12 years ago, the U.S. was willing to settle for $800 million.

The Soviets at that time offered only $300 million to satisfy the debt. Now

Moscow has indicated a willingness to reopen the talks, during which it is anticipated the Soviets would offer to split the difference.

Behind the apparent willingness to clear up old business is a desire for new trade, credits, tariff concessions and advanced technology from the U.S.

Before Washington agrees to a new form of lend-lease, it should make clear the $800 million offer will not be lowered. At that the offer represents a return of only pennies on the dollar and is far more favorable than the Russians deserve.

Enough Is Too Much

John M. Knox is no hippie. To the contrary, he is Dr. John M. Knox, chairman of the Dermatology Department at the Baylor College of Medicine.

But Dr. Knox believes many Americans overdo the bathing bit. The daily scrubdown washes off the natural oils which protect against bacteria. Deodorants compound the problem by plugging the pores.

The doctor is diplomat enough not to attempt to judge how often one ought to bathe. Judiciously, one might say often enough not to become socially offensive but not so often that the body's bacteria defenses are removed.

That still leaves a lot of room between the compulsive three-times-a-day bather and the Saturday night entrepreneur.

Horoscope Forecast

By Carroll Righter

TUESDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

There are opportunities to plan with energy, cleverness and resourcefulness a course of action that will enable you to organize conditions as you would like them. Then do the actual work required to set them in motion immediately.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19)

Use a more modern approach for success in activities you feel are ideal. Making new contacts is good, since you understand others much better now. Delve into civic matters, too.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20)

Sit down with experts and advisers as well as associates and discuss new aims you have that have every promise of success. You will get support for them from all, including your mate. Relax and have fun tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)

Know what your true position is with associates and then confer with a bigwig who can be most helpful to you and your aims. If others are unfriendly, try to get at the cause. Then take right steps to clear up.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21)

There is no better way to come to a real understanding with a new associate than to work together right away. Find the best method for getting rid of any tiredness you feel. Show you have much vitality.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)

Talk over with experts some fine new ideas you have which merely require pointers to make them successful. Out to the fun places with congenials later that relieve tensions. Show you are a fine conversationalist.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)

Find out at home what those who dwell with you have in mind and then you can join forces with good results. Get busy making your abode more attractive and clean. Show a pride of possession.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)

You can now be with congenials, so do not waste time in contacting them early to make appointments. If you need any professional services, get them. Stay within your budget and all is fine for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)

Get busy with financial affairs early and then set aside a certain amount of money for the kind of entertainments you most enjoy. Plan how to improve property you have in some way. Investigate some new hobby that looks interesting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)

Plan just how to get ahead faster where the social side of life is concerned and make the right contacts tonight. You are thinking very clearly and can sway others to help you gain your aims. This is particularly true of friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Making new plans for the future so you become more affluent is fine, provided you do not confide in others. You have the right slant on how to make matter happier this evening. Put a smile where that frown is.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Getting together with persons of same aims and ideas as your own can lead to formulating fine plans for the future. Discuss money with an adviser and get right suggestions. Then put practical affairs in better order.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Handling those affairs that improve your public image is wise early in the day. Show others you are a most charming person. You need to get into that civic work with great interest and vim.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . .

he or she will be one of those very energetic young people who must have the right guidance early where sports and other activities are concerned, or the self-control needed here will not be gained, especially if the companions are the wrong kind. A certain amount of religious training is important early, also. Any profession that requires both idealism and practicality is fine.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

by LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Can a daily sauna bath be harmful? I am thinking of installing one in my home.

Mr. T. I., Ohio

Dear Mr. I.:

The sauna bath is a modification of the steam bath. It was used originally with great frequency in the bathhouses of Finland. Water was poured over hot coals or heated stones to create the steam.

Many people find sauna baths exceedingly relaxing and soothing. It is known, however, that too much steam, too concentrated, and too high in temperature can be fatiguing and dehydrating.

Before you install a sauna bath in your home, I suggest that you consult your physician. He may, because of an existing medical condition, advise you against its use.

For what condition is a low-salt diet recommended?

Mrs. E. R., Conn.

Dear Mrs. R.:

Doctors may recommend a low-salt diet for people with high blood pressure, and some types of kidney disease.

Patients with a tendency to heart failure, and those who are using cortisone intensively, are sometimes told to restrict their salt intake.

Our little child was born with a cleft palate. We felt especially bad about this because there is a history of cleft palate on both sides of our family. He was operated on successfully when he was two months old.

Now our concern is the possibility that the same thing will happen if we have another child.

MR. and Mrs. W.M., Ky.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. M.:

A cleft in the palate, or the roof of the mouth, is due to some fault of development in the unborn child. Often, cleft palate and hare lip occur together because of the failure of both sides of the body to fuse properly.

There does seem to be a positive family tendency towards such congenital, or birth, defects. When there are two parents with this history, there is of course an increased possibility that this will occur in their children.

Fortunately, surgery for cleft palate and hare lip has been remarkably refined with operations that can now be performed shortly after the baby is born. The results, as you know, can be dramatic and gratifying.

You are now faced with a problem that carries a very definite risk of recurrence.

There are now many Centers for Genetic Counseling, where the possibility of another child with cleft palate can be almost mathematically established. Seek their advice so that you can be spared the heartache and personal guilt you have described.

Omens In New Hampshire

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

This is the week in which interested parties will be reading all sorts of omens into the first primary, the one that will be settled in New Hampshire. But for the Democrats, only one thing will really count, and that is the information that will be disclosed about Senator Edmund Muskie's ability to sustain himself as a front-runner.

For the Republicans, the problem is a bit more subtle: if, by any chance, the late starting Representative John Ashbrook, a real conservative, can take almost as many votes away from President Richard Nixon as Representative Pete McCloskey will be getting at the far liberal end of the spectrum, it could have an effect on both our foreign and domestic policies as promulgated from the White House.

The benchmarks to be watched have been set up by a series of polls conducted by the Becker Research Corporation for the Boston Globe in January and early February. These give Muskie 65 per cent of the Democratic primary vote, with 18 per cent going to Senator George McGovern and 5 per cent to Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. The poll of potential Republican primary voters gives Nixon 71 per cent, McCloskey 14 per cent and Ashbrook 4 per cent. In the overall poll that seeks to anticipate November, Muskie gets 48 per cent as against Nixon's 42, with 4 per cent going to Wallace as a possible third party entry.

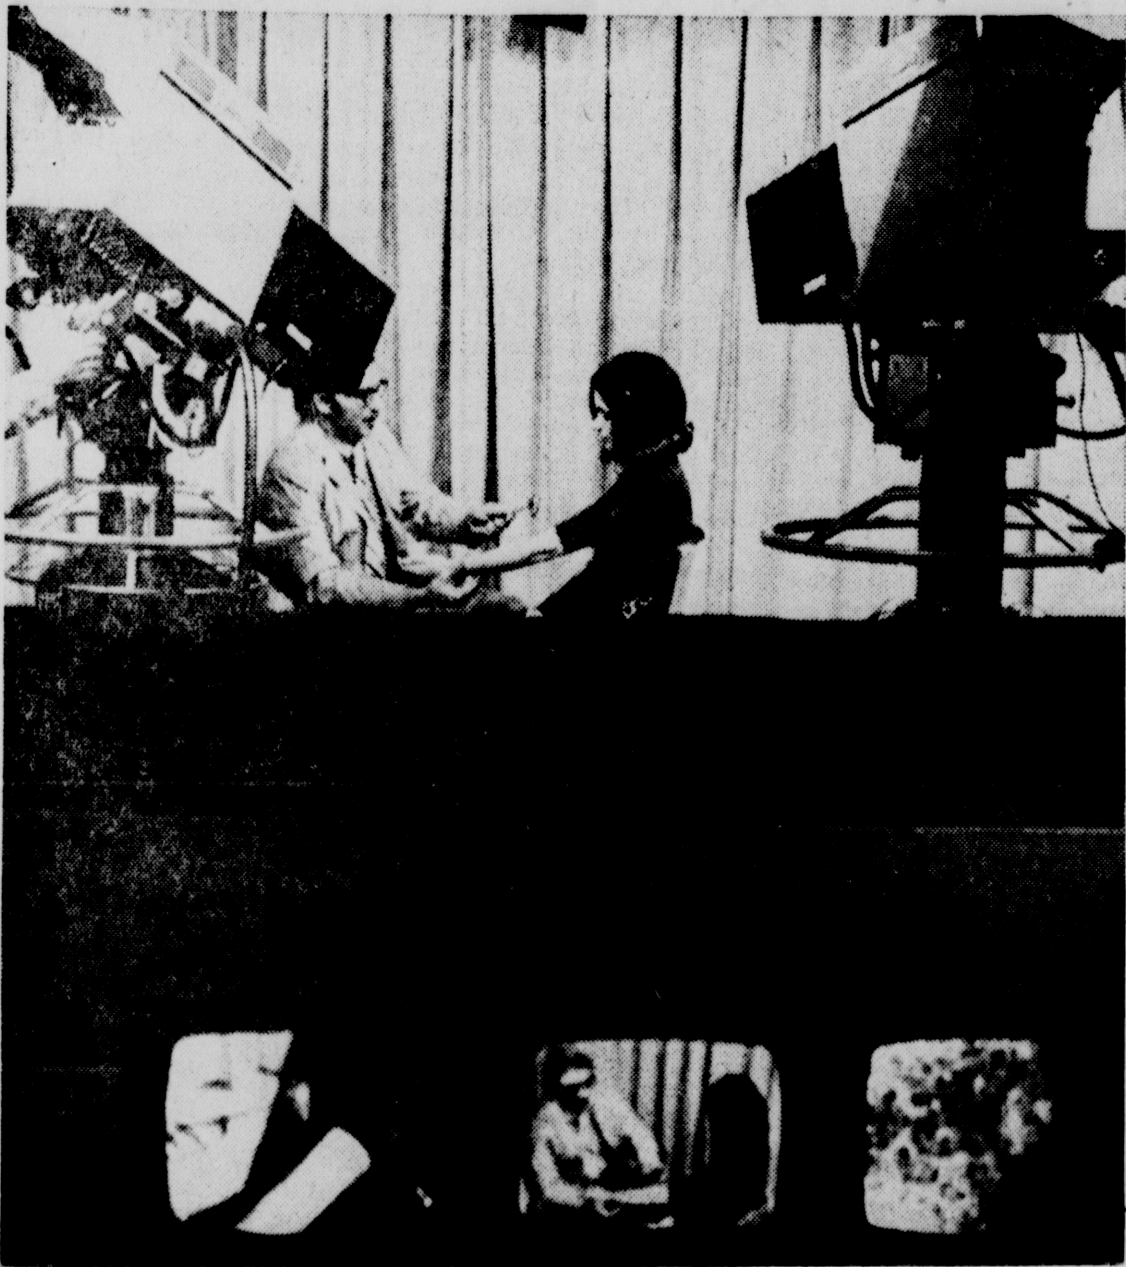

One trouble with the preliminary polling is that it was taken before Muskie had blown his top in public over such things as the question of his "irascibility." Standing on a flat-bed trailer truck in front of the office of the Manchester Union Leader, Muskie called Publisher Bill Loeb a "liar" and a "gutless coward" for printing a letter that quoted the Maine Senator as indulging in ethnic slurs against French Canadian "cannocks" or canucks. Muskie was also riled at Loeb's reproduction of a magazine article about his wife Jane. Without commenting on Loeb's motives in reprinting the words of others, it could be argued that, since the issues were posed originally by an individual letter writer named Paul Morrison, a Florida resident, and by Newsweek, a national magazine of considerable reputation, Muskie was being a bit hysterical in taking out his displeasure on a secondary source. The "lies" and the "gutlessness," if any, were not attributable in the first instance to Bill Loeb.

Since the poll giving him 4 per cent of the Republican primary vote was taken, John Ashbrook has had the opportunity to establish "identity" by talking to New Hampshire residents in the "North country" at Berlin, which is traditionally conservative Republican territory, and throughout the more populous southern regions of the state where the "Massachusetts influence" penetrates in spotty fashion. Ashbrook, with a possible assist from magazine publisher Bill Buckley, who came home from Red China just in time to make an appearance for him at Bedford, N. H., has been dining into New Hampshire ears the "faithfulness" of the Nixon Asian policy.

Whether the "China issue," particularly as it relates to the safety of Taiwan, means anything to New Hampshire citizens has yet to be determined. If Ashbrook takes a big upward leap from the 4 per cent of the Republican vote given to him by the early poll, it will surely mean that the outcome of the China trip has really disturbed Republican conservatives.

For myself, I am pessimistic about Ashbrook's chances of getting any real rise out of the American people on the subject

Nixon Ponders School Busing

President Against Court Decisions

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon arranged to meet today with top domestic advisers to discuss how the administration will fight forced busing of school children.

The chief executive called in his Cabinet committee on busing and three top administration blacks to discuss "a variety of views and options" on busing, deputy press secretary Neal Ball announced.

The President also was to receive a final report on a two-year study by his Commission on School Finance, headed by former Defense Secretary Neil McElroy. Their report was due March 3 but Nixon held off so he could meet personally with the commission.

Ball cautioned reporters not to expect any final report or any announcement today of the President's position on how best to fight busing. The main purpose was discussion "preliminary to a final report," Ball said.

On several occasions Nixon has stated his opposition to forced busing to achieve racial balance in the schools.

Before his China trip, Nixon promised a group of congressmen who favor a constitutional amendment against busing that he would make some proposal after his return home.

He assured them he would not "leave the situation as it is" in the face of recent federal court decisions requiring large-scale busing to achieve school integration. He mentioned three ways to fight busing—legislation, a constitutional amendment and intervention in court suits—but indicated there might be other methods.

The President took up the busing question with two of his top domestic advisers—John Ehrlichman, head of the domestic council, and chief of staff H.R. Haldeman—during a five-day Florida stay that ended Sunday.

Find Grave Of Nixon Cousin Near Caesars Creek Site

WAYNESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — A missing link in President Richard M. Nixon's family tree has been found in a small cemetery in rural countryside near here, officials say.

Richard Workman, director of the Warren County Park District, says he's discovered the burial site of Henry Milhous, a distant cousin of the President.

Dr. Raymond Martin Bell of Washington and Jefferson University in Washington, Pa., an authority on the Nixon family, verified the discovery as authentic.

The burial plot is in a small Quaker cemetery on a narrow, dead-end road about eight miles east of this southwestern Ohio community. The site is on the perimeter of construction for the Caesars Creek recreational lake project, but will be preserved.

Workman said he recently found in Quaker burial records here that Milhous was buried in the cemetery. Bell said he was aware there had been a Henry Milhous, but had been unable to trace the man's path after his departure from South Carolina in the early 1800s.

Records show Milhous emigrated to America with his father, Robert Milhous, at the age of 15, and the family settled in South Carolina.

Milhous' father was the son of John Milhous, whose monument in Timahoe County, Ireland, was decorated by President Nixon in October 1970. John Milhous was Nixon's great-great-great-great-great-grandfather.

Henry Milhous moved to Ohio in 1805 and died on May 22, 1821, at the age of 85.

He was buried adjacent to the small Caesars Creek Friends Meeting House he had helped build in 1805. That log structure was replaced in 1849 by a frame building which still stands.

Workman said there are 15 to 20 graves in the small plot which carry unlettered markers, and the Milhous grave is one of these. He has been unable to determine which is Milhous' grave.

Many of Milhous' descendants are buried in the cemetery.

Harry Truman's Railroad Car To Become A Ski Lodge

By JOHN HANNA
Associated Press Writer

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The railroad car which whistle-stopped Harry S. Truman across the country during his successful presidential campaign of 1948 sits on a lonely siding near here motionless but not forgotten.

The silver, blue and yellow car, No. 902 of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad is destined to become a ski lodge at a new $3 million residential recreation center being built in suburban North Hills.

The Truman car, and a similar one once used by Roger Toey, former president of the railroad, were purchased recently by Wildwood Center Inc.

"We got a real bargain price on them," said Ray Smith, a vice president of the developing company. "We got them for $26,000 total. They say they cost $350,000 each when new."

Both cars are in excellent condition and only a cleaning job is needed to make them sparkle the way they did when Truman barnstormed the country before defeating Thomas E. Dewey.

From the observation deck where Truman addressed the voters, one can now see only a brown and black landscape and the ruins of a coal mine abandoned three years ago and destined for demolition.

The cars are carpeted wall to wall inside and paneled with a handsome red wood which still retains its sheen.

Everything on the cars work, says Smith, including the electric baseboard heating and air conditioning, and the fully equipped bathrooms and kitchens made of stainless steel. In two of the staterooms, the beds fold into the wall to make roomy lounges.

Eventually, Wildwood plans to buy more railroad cars and remake them into lounges and ski motel units and possibly run excursions with them. The Truman and Toey cars, Smith said, will not be changed because of their historical interest.

The surrounding development right next to scenic North Park, is to have a ski slope, skating and tobogganing trails, 112 town houses, numerous apartments and lounges.

Ohio State Expands TV Medical Education Program

Ohio State University has begun a major expansion of its extensive closed circuit TV system for medical education, ordering new RCA color TV cameras and other studio equipment worth nearly $300,000, RCA announced today.

The new equipment, which will occupy two large professional studios, will provide facilities needed to increase production of instructional programs in medicine, according to Robert E. Potts, Director of the Audio Visual and TV center for the University's College of Medicine.

The college produces nearly all of the TV programs viewed by its 1938 students. Its full-color system was inaugurated last year with the installation of approximately $500,000 in RCA cameras, film systems, video tape machines and control equipment — all comparable to that employed by the TV networks and individual stations.

The college's color programs are distributed by cable to 10 medical buildings and can be seen on more than 170 monitors placed in classrooms, auditoriums, lecture halls and hospital and the School of Nursing.

The system's nerve center is a master switching and distribution complex, like that used in large TV stations, which can relay as many as 12 different programs simultaneously to selected groups of viewing monitors, or send the same program to all sets.

Potts said the color system augments a black-and-white one which has been in use at the College since 1966. The first color program was "live" TV coverage of surgery. Pictures were relayed by microwave to a downtown Columbus hotel where receivers had been set up for the one-way video and two-way audio presentation.

All such "live" programs include a two-way audio link between operating room and classroom so that students may ask questions during the surgical procedure and hear the surgeon's response.

In surgery as in many other aspects of medical training, color TV provides the impact of immediacy and realism that is unmatched by any other medium, Potts noted.

The RCA broadcast-type system permits use of the "split screen" technique, familiar to viewers of televised sports and other programs. At Ohio State, two scenes recorded at different times are shown on the same screen simultaneously. Thus, it is possible for students to watch the progressive improvement in retarded children and other patients responding to treatment over periods of time.

The color cameras on order from RCA are a new type known as the TK-44B, announced in October. The camera is capable of producing clear color TV pictures at light levels as low as five foot candles, roughly the illumination provided by an ordinary household flashlight.

RCA engineers point out that this extra sensitivity will permit the cameras to function in many dimly-lit areas indoors and out where no extra illumination is possible.

Floating Fiberglass

NEW YORK (AP) — The British have launched the world's first plastic warship, the 153-foot mine hunter HMS Wilton.

The ship was made of 65 tons or 100,000 yards of woven fiberglass combined with polyester resin. The same materials are used in many of today's pleasure boats.

Cherry Blossom Symbolizes Early Death To Japanese

By HISASHI UNO
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Of all Japanese flowers, cherry blossoms have the shortest lives.

Traditionally, the Japanese believe the most gifted and most beautiful people also die young. So they long have admired and revered the cherry blossom.

During World War II, Japan's kamikaze suicide pilots — many in their late teens — selected the five-petal cherry blossom as their emblem. They had been so educated that they preferred voluntary death to life in disgrace.

In the war-renounced Japan of today, many people say no such militant concepts should exist. But modern underworld leaders of Japan have begun to make an approach to that "glorious death" philosophy.

National police have disclosed that the Yamaguchi-Gumi, the largest underworld organization in Japan, issued an official organ carrying a three-page article dealing with the 1970 harakiri death of Japanese novelist Yukio Mishima in Tokyo.

In the 30-page magazine, police said, a commentator wrote that novelist Mishima had once again brought Japan's "most beautiful but almost forgotten" style of death back into society.

The 45-year-old Mishima entered the Self-Defense Force's Tokyo headquarters, tried to raise the armed forces in revolt, and committed harakiri with a centuries-old Samurai sword when his plot failed.

Mishima, also a playwright, actor, physical cultist, left behind a death ode in which he compared his brief life to the fate of the cherry blossoms:

"While the other flowers
"Unwilling to fall cling to the trees,
"This one small flower falls

"Midst the nightly storm of wind."

As if to follow this, the magazine carried several poems contributed by accused organization members from behind bars. The following relates the destiny of the cherries.

"Lo! You see this,
"This small flower doomed to fall

"Stakes the last drop of life
"Till the last moments of tomorrow."

Police estimate the number of members of the Yamaguchi-Gumi at 11,500 across the country.

The police said it is Japan's first underworld organization to issue such a periodical. They added that major underworld groups total 3,500 in Japan.

$500,000 Loss Seen In Blaze At Mason

MASON, Ohio (AP)—Fire officials still have not determined the cause of a blaze Sunday afternoon that caused an estimated $500,000 damage to the Deerfield Screw Machine Products Co. here.

The building was "pretty well gutted," officials said, adding that the fire destroyed valuable machine equipment. They said the fire probably started in the middle of the building.

There were no injuries.

Mrs. Radcliffe extended a welcome to the church and introduced the speaker, Mrs. C. L. Clark.

Mrs. Clark told how mission dollars are used. Her program was in two parts. The first was on the mission fields in the United States. The second part was centered on Red Bird Mission in Beverly, Ky.

Slides were shown and excerpts read from the book "Letters From Back Home" covering the 50 year history of the mission. Red Bird Mission aids in the development of a five county area. There are 15 churches, three mission schools which serve both dormitory and community students, a clinic and 32 bed hospital. Area churches seek to develop the Christian quality of life and character.

Red Bird High School is a fully accredited school. A variety of courses are offered, including college preparatory and general. Within the curriculum designed for vocational preparation are industrial arts, home economics, business and a cooperative program with the Bell County Vocational School. Transportation is provided for students enrolled in vocational school 23 miles from Beverly. A mobile library reaches out to all homes in this five county area.

Boarding facilities are available to students living in isolated areas from the high school. Dormitory students must work ten hours weekly and a summer work program and scholarships are available to assist those unable to pay. Students also perform many tasks necessary in the upkeep of the mission.

Spiritual development for the student is an important part of the educational program.

The mission hospital at the Queensdale Campus serves the medical needs of people in a 30 mile radius. Three doctors staff the hospital along with many other qualified persons.

To close the program an area song entitled "The Dogwood Song" was sung by Mrs. Dannie Fouts with Mrs. Gary Dean accompanying her on the piano.

Mrs. Clark read the 121st Psalm and gave a closing prayer.

Annual World Prayer Day Held At Calvary Church

The annual World Day of Prayer service was held Friday in Calvary United Methodist Church. Approximately 100 attended this annual event which is celebrated in 169 countries in the world.

The theme for the day, "All Joy Be Yours!" was used as the basis for the short talk given by Thomas Mathew of India. He is a member of the Orthodox Syrian Church, graduate of Christian Union College in Kerala State, India. He is third oldest in a family of ten children, having 5 brothers and 4 sisters. His family home is Malpalam, Kerala State, India. Mr. Mathew will graduate from Circleville Bible College in June and expects to enroll in Cincinnati University to work on his PhD in psychology, after which he will return to India to work among his own people.

Mr. Mathew gave a strong testimonial to the power of prayer and the joys of being a Christian. He illustrated his belief with the example: Using the word christian and divide the word after the t. This takes Christ away and leaves I, a and n. These letters stand for I am nothing. Therefore, without Christ, I am nothing. He concluded his talk by singing a prayer song in his native tongue.

During the offertory, Mrs. Gladys Robinson sang "My Peace I Give Thee," accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Gary Dean. The entire offering will be sent to Church Women United for the use of the Intercontinental Mission which supports work on six continents.

Mrs. Dale DeLong welcomed everyone on behalf of the women of Calvary Church. Other churches taking part in the service were Second Baptist, First Presbyterian, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic, Community United Methodist, Trinity Lutheran, St. Philip's Episcopal, Church of the Brethren, Good Shepherd United Methodist and First Free Will Baptist.

'Garden Gossip' Program For Garden Club

Mrs. Richard Jones of Salt-creek Twp. was guest speaker for the Friday meeting of Soliqua Garden Club at the Ashville Coffee Shop. Her subject was "Garden Gossip." She entertained club members by relating how she obtained material when she was Garden Gossip editor for The Circleville Herald.

Mrs. Jones said to enjoy your garden and if you can't be a blue ribbon winner, be a good loser. Take it season by season and if at all possible have something blooming the year round.

President, Mrs. Clyde Herron, was in charge of the business meeting. Mrs. Alfred Cook selected for devotions the 100th Psalm and led members in repeating the "Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Elzie Brooks reported on the tour scheduled for June 6th to Shaker Village in Kentucky. A dessert course was served to 20 members and one guest. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Daniel Boone, Mrs. Walter Cummins and Mrs. Alfred Cook.

These are the churches which operate the local Clothing Center which contributes used clothing and household items to the needy each Wednesday afternoon. They are members of the Circleville Council of Church women. The next Council meeting will be Monday, April 10 at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. All area churches are cordially invited to send a representative. Mrs. Russell Archer is the president.

State May Widen Role As Inspector

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — An official of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations says the state may have to assume a heavier share of building inspections.

Currently, local governments inspect many new buildings on authority from the department because the state lacks sufficient manpower.

But Paul Witte, the department's deputy director, says some Ohio counties and municipalities aren't inspecting buildings strictly enough, and some structures don't meet state standards.

Witte said contractors and architects wonder why enforcement of state standards varies in different localities.

"Obviously," Witte said, "some municipalities and counties, especially the smaller ones, are not making the proper inspections."

Witte said those local departments found to be deficient will not be allowed to continue the inspections. He said the state should hire two new inspectors to monitor performance of local inspectors.

Indians Used Oil As Cure For Diseases

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Indians were America's first medicine men to use oil as a cure for all kinds of disease.

This was more than two centuries ago, long before the United States was born. And some even believe it probably was the practice when Columbus discovered the North American continent.

The Indians were the forerunners of the so-called "snake oil" salesmen who foraged the countryside before and after the Civil War, in the rural east and pioneer west, peddling petroleum for rheumatism, headaches, ringworm, and tuberculosis.

Newly-discovered historical material now reveal petroleum, used medicinally, was gathered by Indians, drop by drop, with feathers swept across the surface of oily springs in Western Pennsylvania.

Only oil clung to the feathers, likely stripped from the wings of an eagle or a wild turkey. The oil was wiped carefully into a jar, and hoarded until sickness struck.

And when the white man started the westward trek, first in small numbers and still in friendship, the Indians used their allegedly healing black grease as an item of barter.

The Indians' unusual oil gathering technique came to light in a 1792 advertisement found in the archives of the Library Company of Philadelphia.

Now that ad is part of the oil history collection of the Drake Well Museum in this tiny town where America's first oil well was drilled.

It is the second major development in the last two years to peel away the mystery of oil's early history. The first was excavation of an ancient oil pit dug by prehistoric Indians to collect petroleum.

Archeologist Sue Ann Curtis of nearby Oil City discovered the pit but didn't know the inhabitants skimmed it out with feathers. The advertisement revealed how the early Indians did the job.

Printed in German and bearing testimonial from users, the ad claimed petroleum would cure just about any disease known to man. It said this "proven medicament" was on sale in many of the then 13 states.

Before the circular was found it long was believed that Samuel Kier of Pittsburgh was the first full time promoter of oil as a medicine.

He sent wagons from town to town in the early 1850s peddling petroleum. Later Kier turned refiner and marketed oil as an illuminant, which was its first major use.

Hiss Wins Government Pension Right

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four years after his indictment in a sensational spy scandal, Alger Hiss won a court suit against the government and says the victory in a small way vindicates him.

A three-judge federal court ruled Friday that Hiss is entitled to a government pension and said the government has acted unconstitutionally in denying him retirement benefits for six years.

Hiss, now 67 and living in New York, was convicted of perjury in 1950 after denying before a federal grand jury that he gave state secrets to Communist spies.

The Hiss case, among the earliest and most prominent in the spy-scare era that rocked the State Department until the mid-1950s, was the vehicle that sped Richard M. Nixon to national fame.

Nixon, then a freshman congressman from California and a member of the old House Un-American Activities Committee, pursued the Hiss investigation relentlessly.

As President, Nixon appointed one of the three judges who ruled in favor of Hiss Friday, a quirk that Hiss enjoyed.

Hiss was a top State Department official during World War II and was instrumental in U.S. negotiations leading to creation of the United Nations. He accompanied President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the Yalta Conference at the end of the war.

He resigned from the government in 1947 to become president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, but left that position when the storm of accusations surrounded him the following year.

Hiss was the primary target for Whittaker Chambers, then a magazine editor who disclosed to congressional committees and radio audiences that he had been a Communist spy.

Chambers, now dead, fingered Hiss as one of the State Department officials who fed him government secrets.

Nixon subpoenaed evidence from Chambers who then led HUAC investigators to his Maryland farm where he revealed microfilm he had hidden inside a pumpkin. He said the film showed secret documents stolen from the State Department.

The congressional hearings led to the indictment of Hiss in 1948 and his conviction of perjury after two years of trials.

Only 4 Persons Die On Highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ohio recorded its best highway safety record in seven years over the weekend just ended.

Only four persons died in traffic accidents, four less than died during the lowest weekend count last year and one less than died in the lowest count of 1970.

By contrast, the death count one week ago was 17, the worst non-holiday toll of the year to date.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Like it or hate it, the women's liberation movement has really had an impact in Hollywood: Three pilot films were broadcast on the three major networks over the weekend, and each proposed a series for a woman star.

One featured a woman doctor, one cast a woman as a private eye, and the third was built around a woman lawyer. Until now, these jobs have been considered men's work.

Jayne Wyman turned up Sunday night in a pilot on NBC's "The Bold Ones." She played, very attractively, a pediatrician treating a teen-age boy with bleeding ulcers. The hour came in the standard TV-doctor-show mold—Dr. Amanda Fallon even had a younger (male) assistant.

As usual in TV fiction, the good, concerned doctor was able to devote most of her time to one patient. She uncovered the cause of the boy's illness and added a wise little lecture on human relations. The viewer who finds "Marcus Welby, M.D." soothing and leans on the "Medical Center" team, will undoubtedly find "Amanda Fallon, M.D." a bright spot on a schedule—if it makes it.

Saturday night's pilot, "A Very Missing Person," on ABC was vaguely based on a fairly recent Stuart Palmer book. It was a busy story built around dropouts and con men and really didn't make very much sense.

The big problem was trying to fit Eve Arden into the character of Hildegard Withers, the retired school teacher who solves murders for fun. There was constant reference to Miss Withers' advanced age—and Miss Arden did not look in the least like a little old spinster lady. Also her crisp decisive way with a line, a technique that works well for her in comedy, added an aggressive, abrasive note, possibly because the

Pilot's Fault

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Private pilot George M. Hattingh's plane hit a power line and he made an emergency landing so he sued the Electricity Supply Commission for damages. The court rejected his claim and awarded the commission $8,038 for damage to the power line.

'Wilderness Journey' Starts Thursday At Local Cinema

"Wilderness Journey" is a tense, dramatic, yet heart-warming outdoor adventure motion picture produced on location in Alaska.

An emergency high in some of the world's most remote mountains send Joniko, a young Tlingit Indian boy, on a search to find his father, away on a hunt. In this suspense filled tale the boy must become a man and confront the rulers of the animal kingdoms, asking permission to pass through each of their domains. He travels through a magnificent, scenic wilderness, abounding with wildlife; moose, grizzlies, caribou, dall sheep, and, in one of the most startling photographic sequences ever filmed, the 60 ton gray whale.

The role of Joniko is played by 12-year-old Tony Tucker Williams, a real Tlingit Indian chosen from among 500 applicants for the part. Chuck D. Keen wrote, photographed, and was the inspiration behind the movie. The director was Ford

Beebe, long with Walt Disney Productions, who gained fame as film producer of Disney's "Lonesome Cougar."

Spectacular camera work marks this unusual color production, which earned the Grand Award at the Photographic Society of America's 40th Annual Film Festival.

"Wilderness Journey", G-rated, is a Rainbow Adventure Film released through American National Enterprises, the company that brought you "Cougar Country." This is the unique motion picture firm dedicated to presenting only all-family entertainment to the public and starts Thursday at the Cinema Circleville for a three-day showing.

ON THE WAY — Mifflin's Steve Dorsey (13) is airborne after beating Dave Mehalick, and crashed towards the Tiger boards guarded by Don Valentine (34) and Dan Graham, behind Valentine.

BEST VS BEST — Mifflin's Steve Dorsey (13) drives around Circleville's Terry Morrison (10) in first half action of the Groveport sectional tournament Saturday night.

OUTREBOUNDED — The Tigers, who were outrebounded 30-20 by a taller Mifflin squad, were victims of play like this pictured. Kent Wolfe was set to grab the ball from Steve Dorsey (13) when the giant hand of Strong (43) reached in to take it from his fingertips.

Michigan State Wins Big Ten Track Title

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Now that Wisconsin's five-year conference title string has been snapped, Francis Dittich thinks his Big Ten champion Michigan State team has a shot at the NCAA indoor track crown.

"We've got an outside chance at it," said Dittich of the NCAA beginning Thursday in Detroit's Cobo Hall.

"Our men will have to be really up, and I'm afraid they will have a mental lapse after

Tigers Lose Overtime Tilt

By DAVE AMEY
Herald Staff Writer

Mifflin, frustrated all night by a sagging Tiger defense and the togetherness of the Circleville players, unleashed their run and shoot and shoot again attack that buried the Tigers 60-49 in overtime of the Class AA Groveport sectional tournament finals Saturday night.

The lead changed hands 15 times after Mifflin took the opening tipoff and immediately scored.

It was a rough and tumble game that found the Tigers minus senior shotmaker Terry Morrison throughout much of the second half.

Terry, called for a second straight charging foul after a Mifflin player sprawled to the floor when he dribbled by, fouled out of the game with 5:01 still left in the third period.

MIFFLIN built a quick 8-2 lead in the opening minutes of the game on three drives against the Tiger man to man defense and a 30 foot jumper after Circleville switched to an umbrella zone with the guards still man to man.

The strategy worked for Circleville, as they shut off the Mifflin offense while Dan Graham canned 7 straight points to pull the Tigers within one of Mifflin.

Mifflin added a free throw and Circleville's Dave Truex cashed in from the corner to knot the first quarter 9-9.

The Tigers set their game plan in that quarter — a plan that almost pulled out the win.

Mifflin had been blitzing the baskets early, but Circleville kept a cool head and played their patented deliberate game, forcing Mifflin to slow for set plays also.

The Tigers increased an 18-17 count with 1:14 left in the half to a 22-19 halftime advantage, their biggest margin of the game.

IN the half, the Tigers stayed loose at the top of their key and tried to work the ball underneath with quick outside passing.

But it was their defense that kept them in the game.

Mifflin seemed stumped by the Circleville defense, as their run and shoot offense was fizzling under the Tiger umbrella.

But Mifflin came back and regained the lead 28-27 as Steve Dorsey dropped in a free throw after drawing Morrison's fifth foul.

The Tigers had trouble settling down after Morrison's early departure, but Dave Truex, switched to a guard by Coach John Lawhorn, and the steady board screens of Dan Graham and Don Valentine kept the Tigers within striking distance of Mifflin 33-32 as the last period started.

In the closing minutes of regulation play, Dave Mehalick grabbed the rebound of his missed foul shot and drove it home for a 44-42 Circleville lead with 1:54 left in the period.

DORSEY, firing long for Mifflin, followed his missed shot for a tying tip with 1:05 remaining.

Truex dribbled up the court and under the basket, where he was fouled as the ball rolled around the rim and out with 51 seconds left in the fourth period.

Westfall's Tourney Trip Ends, 59-49

A 59-49 loss to Jonathan Alder marked the end of Westfall's tourney journey Saturday in the sectional finals at Grove City.

The winners, the Jonathan Alder Pioneers, go on to District action at the Fairgrounds Coliseum in Columbus. And the losers start thinking about next year.

But there is no next year for seven of the Mustang cagers. Chuck Steinhauser, Doug McKay, John Valone, Scott Riddle, Larry Harris, Tim Neff and Tom Cook, who didn't suit up, are all seniors.

Westfall ended the season with a 4-16 record, while Jonathan Alder will take an 11-9 mark into district play.

IT was no easy victory for the Pioneers who had to battle to gain a 14-11 edge at the end of the first quarter. They were still ahead, 27-22 at halftime, and 42-31 at the end of three quarters.

Then in the fourth period the Pioneers were able to build a 56-38 bulge, after two of the starting Mustangs had left the game via the foul route.

Chuck Steinhauser fouled out with 1:15 remaining in the third quarter and Scott Riddle left the game with 6:22 left in the fourth frame.

Jonathan Alder went to its bench right after building the 19 point margin and the Mustangs were able to close the game to 10 points before the final buzzer.

It was not a good shooting night for Westfall. The Mustangs fired away at the basket a total of 62 times during the tilt, but made only 15, an average of 24 per cent. From the foul line, they had 33 chances and converted 19 for a 57 per cent average. Westfall made 13 turnovers in the tilt.

Jonathan Alder took 59 shots from the field, making 22 for a 37 per cent average, made 15 of 30 shots from the charity stripe for a 50 per cent accuracy range and threw the ball away 20 times.

THE taller Pioneers controlled the rebounding in the game, pulling down 43 missed shots compared to 33 for Westfall.

Leading scorer in the game was Terry Edgington of Jonathan Alder. He sank seven of 14 shots from the field and five of six at the charity stripe for a 19 point total. Dick Murray scored 12 markers while playmaker Steve Raber contributed eight as did Terry Jordan.

Rounding out the scoring for the winners were Dick Robinson with four, Tad Johns, Mike Church and John Boyhan with two each and Rick Frey with one.

Westfall had a balanced scoring effort with eight Mustangs having a hand in putting points on the board. Harris scored 12 points, McKay and Mike Peterson nine each, Steinhauser eight, Marc Easterday, Riddle and Valone three each and Neff two.

Westfall was charged with 25 personal fouls by the officials and Jonathan Alder was charged with 22 personals. The Mustangs used man to man defense throughout the game, pressing full court much of the time, while Jonathan Alder was content to stay in a tight zone through almost all of the game.

Trevino Tied With Nicklaus In Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — It's a Nicklaus-Trevino gunfight at the O.K. Doral with the Over-the-Hill Gang in grizzled pursuit.

"I'd better shoot a 67 Monday," said Lee Trevino, "or I'm a dead Mexican. Jack Nicklaus is the best that ever picked up a club ... and what about them old fellows? When they gonna quit?"

Last year's two leading money winners sloshed into today's final 18 holes of the rain-hammered Doral-Eastern Open Golf Tournament in a deadlock at 10-under-par 206.

"It's rained so much here, I feel like I'm wading across the Rio Grande," said tour jester Trevino. "But, let me assure everybody, I'm happy to be tied for the lead after Nicklaus shot 64."

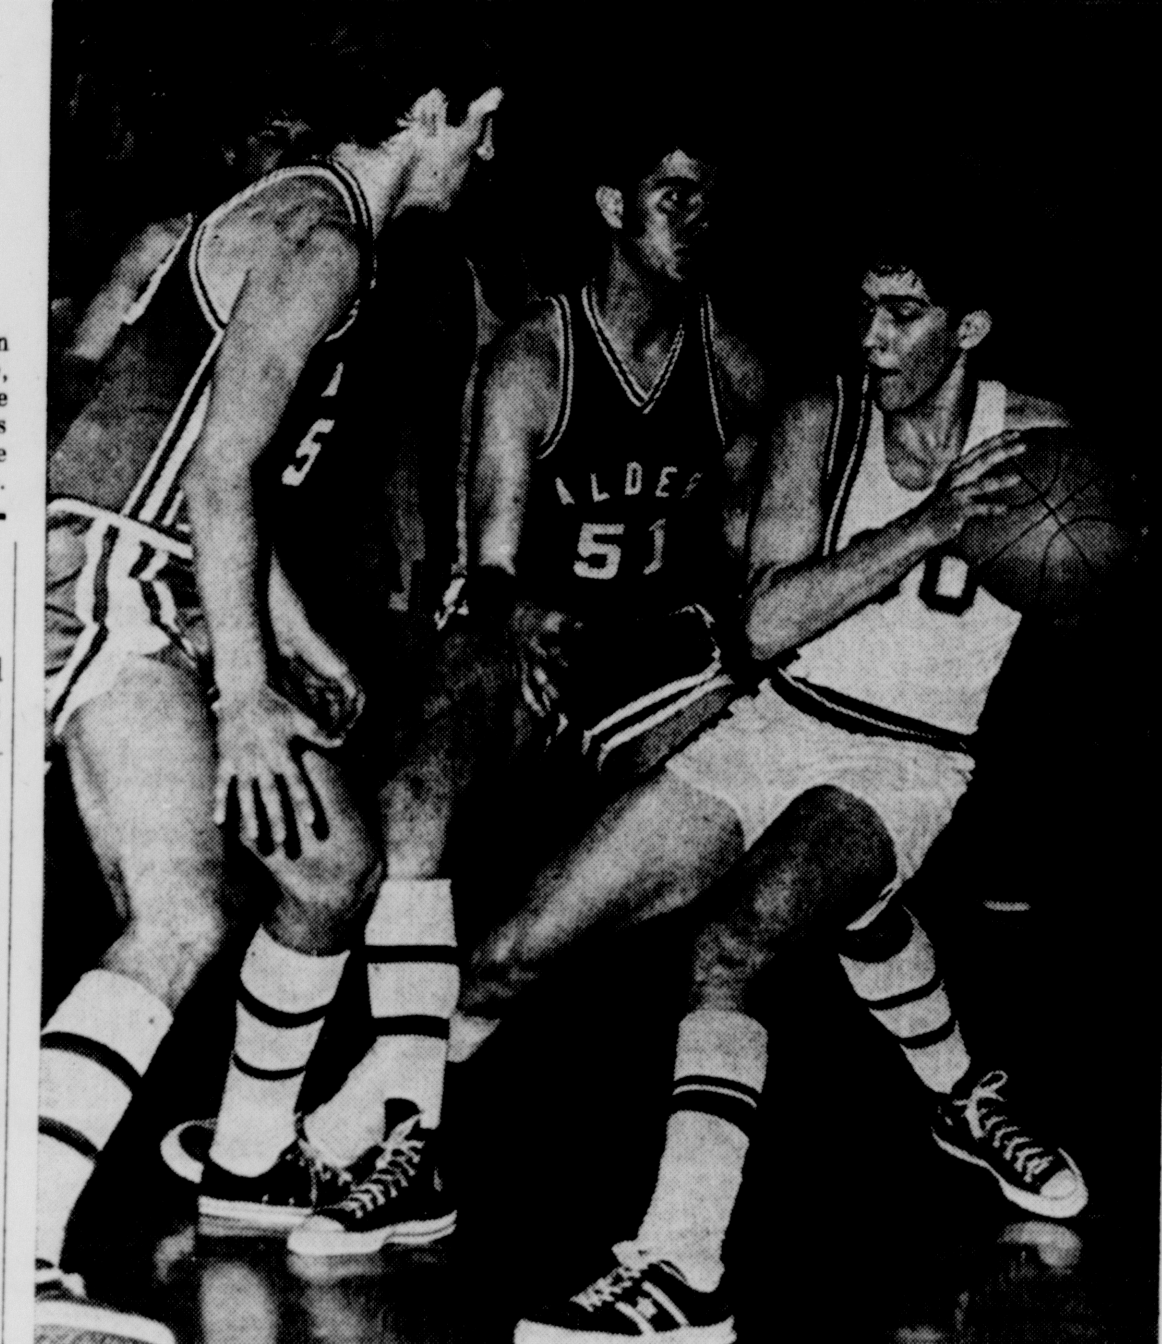

The stars were there ... as expected. Their supporting cast was a bit of a surprise as the old goats, for one week at least, shoved aside a few of the young lions.

For instance, bald-headed Sam Snead, 59, shot a 68 and stood one shot behind Nicklaus and Trevino at 207 after 54 holes.

For instance, silver-haired Paul Harney, a 42-year-old club pro, stood with Slammin' Sam as he, too, fired a four-under-par 68.

For instance, pudgy Bob Rosburg, 45, was only four strokes behind after finishing a Sunday round of 70 using his three-iron to putt. His putter's shaft snapped four holes from the finish and Bob one-putted all four with the sub club.

And, for instance, pot-bellied Julius Boros, 52, shot 70 to stick within striking range at five-under-par 211 along with Art Wall, a man of 47.

HIT THE BRAKES — Doug McKay of Westfall comes to an abrupt halt as he runs into Dick Robinson (51) and John Boyhan (53) of Jonathan Alder. The Mustangs lost the game, 59-49, to end their tournament hopes and their cage season with a 4-16 record.

McLain Traded To Oakland Frank Howard On Block

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

If Texas couldn't hold Denny McLain, what about big Frank Howard?

The Texas Rangers dealt McLain to Oakland over the weekend for two minor league pitchers—Don Stanhouse and Jim Panther—and Manager Ted Williams said Sunday that slugger Howard, a stubborn holdout, is also available in a trade "that we could live with."

Since the Boston Red Sox were visiting the Rangers' Pompano Beach, Fla., training camp for an exhibition baseball game, Williams proposed a four-for-one swap with the Bosox.

"What will they give for the big guy?" Williams asked. "I'd go for a four-for-one deal, but it would have to be something we could live with. Put down the names of 10 players from the 40-man roster and we could talk."

Williams wasn't thinking about the Boston stars. Instead, he mentioned people like relievers Sparky Lyle and Bill Lee, utility infielder John Kennedy and rookies Ben Ogilvie and Cecil Cooper.

However, Boston manager Eddie Kasko said he definitely opposed giving four players for Howard, even though the thought of the big fellow aiming at Fenway Park's friendly left field fence is enough to give opposing hurlers even more nightmares.

After the prospect of a Howard trade was kicked around, the Rangers were held to two hits by Ray Culp and Gary Peters and dropped a 3-1 rain-shortened 6½-inning decision to the Red Sox.

Elsewhere on the slim exhibition schedule, Minnesota nipped Detroit 2-1 on Steve Brye's bases-loaded single, the Chicago White Sox shaded the New York Yankees 1-0 on rookie Pete Varney's sixth-inning homer just before rain halted the contest and the San Diego Padres walloped Mexico's Red Devils 11-2. The Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Mets were rained out.

Cage Team Needed For Tournament

One team is still needed for the Stoutsville Parent Teacher Organization Annual Independent Basketball Tournament, it was announced today by Don Morrison, tourney manager.

The tournament will be held at Stoutsville School March 13, 14, 15, 16, 21, 22 and 23. Drawing will be held 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the school. Any team interested in participating should contact Morrison at 474-6368.

Davey, Frericks, Webb Win Berths In State Tourney

Mark Davey won the 185-pound district wrestling championship Saturday with three pins.

Davey, along with Dave Webb and Tom Frericks, qualified for state finals Friday and Saturday.

The Tigers placed six men in the district meet finishing fourth with 48 points. The district was won by DeSales with 110½ points.

Watterson was second with 59½ points, Olentangy third with 48½, Grandview fifth with 41½, Jonathan Alder sixth with 37, Ready seventh with 35 and Marysville eighth with 26 points.

DAVEY pinned Lorenzo Baker of Bexley in 1:12, had Licking Valley's Mike Lowe on his back in 1:47 and put Marysville's Roy Freker on the mat in 4:52.

In the 105-pound competition, Steve Watters lost to Tom Bauer, 1971 state champ from DeSales, by a pin, then decided Ted Tanimoto of Grandview, 8-1, and Joel Morrison of Marysville, 6-0, to finish third in the district.

Dave Webb, the Tigers' 132-pounder, decided Steve Ackley of Buckeye Valley, 6-0, decided John Coy, Olentangy, 2-1 and then lost to Dan Hollern of DeSales, 2-0, to finish second.

Jim Payne, in the 145-pound class, lost to Jim Conway of DeSales by a pin, then decided Kevin Sweeney of Ready, 7-4, and Steve Howell of Olentangy, 5-2, for a third place finish.

In the 167-pound class, Gary Mogan decided Bill Lewis of Licking Heights, 13-4, then lost by decision to Joe Julian of DeSales, 2-1, and to Gordon

Phillips by a pin to finish fourth.

Tom Frericks decided Sam Digando of Licking Valley, 13-4, in the first match, decided Vince Ingalls of Bexley, 8-2, in his second and then lost to Mike Lang of Grandview, 10-6, to finish second in the league.

DAVEY has a season record of 27-2, including 21 pins. Frericks is 23-2, including 17 pins and Dave Webb is 28-3.

The state competition starts at noon Friday in St. John's Arena, Columbus.

SPORTS Highlights

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Former Purdue University defensive tackle Bill Yancher has been traded by the Cleveland Browns to the Detroit Lions of the National Football League.

In exchange for the 6-foot-3, 250 pound lineman, the Browns received an undisclosed future draft choice. Yachar spent last season on the cab squad after being on the regular roster during his rookie year.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Cincinnati Reds pitcher Jim McGlothlin, who says he wants to be a starter for his team this year, does not particularly relish the thought of going to the bullpen.

"I'm not sure I want to go to the bullpen," said the 6-foot-1 right-hander. "I haven't decided what to do in that case. I might just go ask to be traded if they stick me in the bullpen."

Toledo, OU Square Off Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Mid-American Conference basketball co-champions Toledo and Ohio University square off at Bowling Green Tuesday night to determine which goes to the NCAA tournament.

The Bobcats gave Coach Jim Snyder his sixth league title, more than any other coach in MAC history, by whipping Bowling Green 105-84 Saturday.

Toledo had to work a little harder in tripping Kent State 59-57 for a share of the conference title.

"It looks interesting," Snyder said of the upcoming playoff.

"Both Kent and Toledo have been playing good ball. I haven't given much thought to their relative differences."

Having the playoff game at Bowling Green will give Toledo a slight advantage travel-wise and crowd-wise, Snyder said, but "we don't dread playing there."

Concerning Saturday's game, Snyder rated junior guard Tom Jordan's play "just super. He's been pretty fantastic all year."

Corde sank 13 of 14 free shots and scored 27 points in helping the Bobcats to finish the regular season 7-3 in the conference and 14-10 over-all.

Bowling Green, finishing 1-9 in the league and 4-19 for all games, was led by Dalyn Bardenhop with 15 points.

Toledo had to sit off a furious Kent rally and pulled out the win on John Hodak's layup with 50 seconds left to play. Kent had battled back from a 56-49 deficit with 4:19 left.

Bob Repp and Tom Kozelko scored 15 points apiece for the Rockets, who finished the season 18-6 for all games. Ruben Vance had 20 points for Kent, 6-4 in the league and 7-17 over-all.

"I consider it a great victory," said Toledo Coach Bob Nichols. "I was proud of the way our guys hung in there."

"Everybody played a great game, but if I had to single somebody out, it would be Repp. Not only did he put the ball in, he got the ball for us when we needed it."

In other major college games Saturday, Indiana downed Ohio State 65-57 to jar the Buckeyes' Big Ten title hopes. Wittenberg and Kenyon won berths in the Ohio Conference tournament finals with division victories, Cincinnati upset 19th-ranked Florida State 88-64. Xavier beat Miami 78-74 and Dayton dropped Notre Dame 86-74.

The Buckeyes dropped a full game behind Minnesota in the Big Ten race. The Gophers, who beat Illinois 91-62 Saturday, now are 10-3 while OSU is 9-4. Each has one game remaining.

"The last two titles were decided in the last game, and we finished on winning notes," Ohio State Coach Fred Taylor said. "The tempo was going our way then, but the situation is different now," he added.

Ohio State ends its regular season at home against Michigan State Tuesday night. Minnesota closes its season the same night at Purdue.

Wittenberg advanced to the Ohio Conference championship game at Mount Union Tuesday by edging Capital 75-71 to win the Southern Division playoffs. Pat Beasley led Wittenberg with 29 points and 11 rebounds.

Kenyon moved into the tie with a come-from-behind 76-65 victory over Baldwin Wallace in Northern Division play behind the 32-point performance of Marty Hunt.

Cincinnati, bidding for a National Invitational Tournament berth, upended NCAA tournament-bound Florida State as Derrek Dickey pumped in 20 points. It was the Bearcats' 10th win in 12 games and hiked their record to 17-9.

Xavier's win was its first over Miami since 1968. After the score was knotted 69-69 at the end of regulation play, the teams battled nip-and-tuck until Tom Binegar sank a bank shot with 10 seconds to go to ice the victory for the Musketeers.

Dayton went on a nine-point scoring surge in the closing minutes of the first period to take a 41-28 halftime lead over Notre Dame and maintain control the rest of the way. The win gave the Flyers a 13-13 season record and enabled them to avoid their first losing season in 24 years.

In the only other Ohio college basketball game Saturday, Ashland trimmed Cheyney State 108-107 in overtime. It was a sweet victory of Ashland because it was over a team headed for the NCAA College Division tournament, an event to which Ashland was not invited after five straight appearances.

Cleveland Indians Said Purchased By Nick Mileti

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Vernon Stouffer has sold the Cleveland Indians to Nick Mileti and only the approval of American League club owners is needed to make the sale final, the Cleveland Plain Dealer said today.

In a dispatch from the Indians' spring training camp at Tucson, Ariz., Russell Schneider, the paper's baseball writer, said approval by the club owners is expected at a special meeting in Sarasota, Fla., Wednesday morning.

He said the purchase price is believed to be about $9 million.

The transaction is expected to end the possibility that the Indians would play 30 of its 81 home games in New Orleans, starting in 1974.

Mileti has made no public comment on the sale, but he is known to oppose the idea of moving the team out of the city or sharing it with another town.

Schneider said both Stouffer and Mileti will be at the Sarasota meeting and that Mileti will be accompanied by a group of Clevelanders who plan to have a financial interest in the baseball club.

Stouffer was quoted by the Plain Dealer as saying he'd be at the meeting. He previously confirmed that Mileti had made an offer for the Tribe and said "I hope eventually it will work out."

One of the reasons for Stouffer's hopes, the Plain Dealer said, was that Stouffer wants to sell the team to someone who would keep it in Cleveland.

Stouffer has spent the winter at his winter home in Scottsdale, Ariz., and the owner of the Indians has yet to make an appearance at their Tucson training camp that's less than 100 miles away.

Gabe Paul, president and general manager of the team was not available for comment. He is in Tucson with the team.

Stouffer has rejected other offers to purchase the Indians since he bought the club for an estimated $8.2 million in 1965.

Mileti owns the Cleveland Barons of the American Hockey League and the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association.

He also is the owner of the Cleveland Arena and is involved in planned construction of a multi-million dollar sports coliseum in northern Summit County south of Cleveland as a new home for his hockey and basketball teams. There is enough acreage at the site for construction of a baseball-football stadium complex.

Construction of the coliseum has been delayed by legal action by residents of Richfield Township, where the sports complex is to be located.

Mileti is also awaiting action by the Federal Communications Commission on his recent purchase of radio station WKYC in Cleveland.

Detroit Tigers Optimistic Under Manager Billy Martin

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Optimism pervades the Detroit Tigers' spring training camp, and it shouldn't be shrugged off as "standard operational procedures" of the Grapefruit League season.

Manager Billy Martin, in his second year in command, ran a tight ship last year and is the type who has a way of getting the maximum from a ballplayer. Two years ago the Tigers finished fourth in the East Division of the American League, 29 games behind leader Baltimore. But Martin guided them to second behind the Orioles last season, 12 games out.

Bullets Top L.A. Lakers; Win 108-94

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A team scoring 108 points against the Los Angeles Lakers is normally called "the losing team." However, the Baltimore Bullets got 108 and escaped the West Coast as "the winning team."

The Bullets handed the Lakers a 108-94 loss Sunday night. It was the first time this season the record-setting Lakers had failed to score more than 100 points.

Another item of bad news for Los Angeles is its chances of setting a National Basketball Association record for season victories was dimmed. The Lakers must win 10 of their remaining 11 games to crack the 68-victory mark set by Philadelphia in 1966-67.

For Coach Bill Sharman of the Lakers, it was "just a lousy defensive game for us." He pointed out the Bullets scored on easy layups in the second half, and Baltimore also interrupted the Los Angeles' fast break.

Los Angeles managed just a slim 52-50 lead at halftime. Baltimore had a 33-25 third-quarter edge as John Tresvant and Mike Riordan ignited an early spurt, backed by a late quarter spree by Dave Stallworth and Archie Clark.

In other National Basketball Association games, Philadelphia defeated New York 100-98, Phoenix thumped Buffalo 131-103, Chicago downed Houston 128-97, and Seattle beat Atlanta 112-110.

Colonels Rip Pittsburgh; Win 134-124

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dan Issel's second season began against the Pittsburgh Condors. Too bad for the Condors.

The Kentucky Colonels' forward led his team to a 134-124 victory over Pittsburgh Sunday, scoring 39 points. The game was played just hours after a victory over Dallas which gave the Colonels the East Division championship in the American Basketball Association.

Members of the Colonels didn't get too excited over the title. They know they still have a month to play in the regular season—sort of a second season. For Issel, the year is three seasons long.

"We still must keep winning, first of all for our pride," Issel said after the Dallas game. "The playoffs are a whole different season. It's good we've got a whole month to prepare for them."

The Colonels know about that "different season." Last year they lost to Utah in the ABA championships. It was a seven-game series in which the home team won every contest.

"Heck, this was worth only a few hundred bucks," said Issel, who will share $5,000 with his teammates. "We're saving the noise for the big one—the playoffs."

Issel made too much noise for Pittsburgh as he scored 24 points in the first half. Teammate Artis Gilmore scored 20 points for Kentucky, which had a 32-point lead at halftime. Dave Lattin led Condors' scoring with 32 points while Bob Verga had 27 points.

Elsewhere in the ABA, Denver defeated Memphis 137-129, Indiana topped Dallas 110-99, and New York beat Carolina 114-96.

A. J. Foyt Wins Miller 500; Heads Back To Midget Cars

ONTARIO, Calif. (AP) — A.J. Foyt goes back home to Houston to drive a midget in the Astrodome this weekend, and most of NASCAR's regular drivers will be glad to see him go.

The 37-year-old Texan romped off with his third major stock car victory of the season Sunday, beating Alabama Bobby Allison across the finish line by four seconds in the $201,000 Miller High Life 500.

He collected $31,695 from the purse, led 145 of the 200 laps, averaged 127.606 miles per hour, and came away "as thrilled as I've ever been in my life."

Foyt, of course, always is "thrilled" to win a race. And his enthusiasm for stock car racing has grown by leaps and bounds the last two seasons.

He wound up 1971 as NASCAR's fifth leading money winner, though he raced only seven times for the $93,000 he took back to Texas.

He's off to an even better start this year. He won $22,010 by taking the Western 500 at Riverside, Calif. in January and $44,600 for his triumph in the Daytona 500 two weeks ago.

Add the $31,695 he got for leading the pack again Sunday and it comes to $96,205 in four races since he buckled himself

Kent State Winner Of MAC Swimming

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Mid-American conference swimming champion Kent State didn't let it happen two years in a row.

The Golden Flashes, heavily-favored a year ago for the title, lost it to Ohio University. This time Kent, favored again, rolled up the most points in the meet's history, 162, in swimming away with the championship Saturday.

Ohio University, its string of three straight titles broken, settled for second place with 139 points. Miami finished third with 90, followed by Bowling Green 50 and Western Michigan 15.

Mary Hohenberger Coach Of The Year

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Defiance College basketball whose team was the winningest in the state at 23-1, has been named Ohio's Coach of the Year by his fellow mentors.

Hohenberger won the award over Wyatt Webb of Akron in the closest vote in the 19-year history of the annual poll conducted by the Columbus Dispatch. Hohenberger received 54 points to Webb's 53.

Cincinnati St. Xavier Wins Swimming Crown

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Denny White was surprised at his state high swimming champion Cincinnati St. Xavier's point total.

"I didn't think we would break 250 points, but the boys were confident," said White after the Bombers hit that total Saturday in winning their third straight state crown.

Top College Cage Teams In Home Stretch

By KEN RAPPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer

This is the week that is for many college basketball teams. Nine conference races will be decided and the volatile finish will make waves reaching both the NCAA's post-season tournament and the NIT.

Two Big Ten powers who literally battled the last time they met, Ohio State and Minnesota, are among the antagonists.

"If there is a playoff, it wouldn't make any difference to us where it would be played," said Minnesota Coach Bill Musselman after Saturday's 91-62 crusher over Illinois that moved the Gophers a meager game ahead of the Buckeyes, who lost 65-57 to Indiana.

Michigan still has an outside chance in that dizzy affair, but the stronger and more interesting possibility exists of another Ohio State-Minnesota confrontation. Their Jan. 25 game, won by Ohio State, ended in a bloody fight with widespread repercussions.

Minnesota needs a victory against Purdue Tuesday night to clinch its first league title in 35 years. However, if the Gophers lose, the Buckeyes could claim a share of the title by beating Michigan State.

Any combination of possibilities exist in the other league fights with the winner going to the national championship and the loser, most likely in some cases, to the less-prestigious NIT.

Coach Ray Mears of Tennessee, close to his second Southeastern Conference title, says it won't be decided "until Kentucky comes to Knoxville Thursday night."

Tennessee bolstered its small advantage with an 80-70 triumph over Auburn Saturday night while Kentucky was idle.

"Kentucky is in a good spot," said Mears. "We've got Vanderbilt Monday night and the Commodores are running hot."

The Wildcats, one game behind the Volunteers, host Auburn tonight before the big game Thursday. Both Kentucky and Tennessee are favored tonight and presumably, the regular season's last game will have significance.

Louisville has a must-win Missouri Valley Conference game tonight against Tulsa. The Cardinals are a half-game behind Memphis State, which defeated Drake Saturday night.

If Louisville wins as expected, it will throw the MVC into a tie and mean a playoff game this Saturday night.

In the Big Eight, it's a battle between Kansas State and Missouri, which kept its hopes alive by beating Nebraska 61-54.

Jack Hartman, only in his second year as coach, can clinch a title by beating Missouri in a head-to-head match Tuesday night. If the Wildcats lose, the race will be tied and both clubs will try to settle matters with other opponents later this week.

The Ohio Valley Conference is just as crazy as the rest of the unsettled races. There's a three-team tie there between Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky and Morehead. This predicament was established over the weekend when Western Kentucky beat Middle Tennessee 85-71 and Eastern Kentucky stopped Morehead 121-91.

The three first-place teams will have a playoff for the title. Western plays Morehead Tuesday and the winner takes on Eastern Wednesday.

A tussle in the Southwest Conference matches SMU against Texas, both of whom won Saturday night to finish in a tie. They'll meet Tuesday night to determine the NCAA representative.

"I never took a more enjoyable bath in my life," said Texas Coach Leon Black, who was tossed into the shower after his team secured a share of the SWC title by beating Texas Christian 72-65.

After Black dried himself, he attended SMU's 96-87 victory over Baylor which made his team a co-titleholder.

Ohio defeated Bowling Green 105-84 and Toledo defeated Kent State 59-57 to finish the season in a tie for the Mid-American Conference. They'll play Tuesday night for an NCAA berth.

San Francisco holds a one-game edge over Santa Clara in the West Coast Athletic Conference after defeating Nevada-Las Vegas 90-83. The front-runners meet at San Francisco Wednesday.

North Carolina has drawn a first-round bye in the Atlantic Coast Conference playoffs after winning the regular season title with a 93-69 victory over Duke. Maryland, which defeated Virginia 45-42 Saturday to tie the Cavaliers for second place, will be among the teams competing in the opening round Thursday.

Penn. Temple and East Carolina clinched titles Saturday and joined those already in the

Plane Crash In Kentucky Fatal To 3

WALTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky State Police say it will take Federal Aviation Administration officials at least three or four weeks to determine the cause of a plane crash Saturday near here that killed three persons.

Kentucky State Trooper Richard Spencer, in charge of the police investigation, said "as far as we know, there was never any flight plan filed."

Toney Garcia, 38, of Ormand Beach, Fla., was identified Sunday as the pilot of the Cherokee 140 single-engine craft, which crashed near here, about seven miles south of the Greater Cincinnati Airport. He was reportedly identified through dental plates.

Authorities identified the other two passengers, both men, but did not release their names pending notification of their relatives. They said the plane was apparently headed for Middletown, Ohio.

The plane had made refueling stops in Georgia before it crashed nose first into a field, police said.

Authorities said it was difficult to identify the victims because there was no flight plan and the bodies were badly charred, since the plane burst into flames on impact.

Westfall Cage Banquet Slated

The annual Westfall Basketball Banquet will be held 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the high school cafeteria it was announced today by Paul Hoskins, WHS athletic director.

Phil Roach, head basketball coach at Marietta College, will be the principal speaker.

Members of the varsity, junior varsity, freshman and Westfall - Jackson Junior high cage teams will be honored, along with cheerleaders and managers.

Weapons In Jail

NEW YORK (AP) — A recent search of 1,900 Adolescent Remand Shelter cells on Rikers Island uncovered 300 homemade weapons.

Correction Commissioner Benjamin J. Malcolm called it "the first massive search" in the department's history.

A total of 260 correction officers and supervisors took part in the early morning search.

Tigers . . .

Dave canned both free throws to end the Tiger's regulation scoring.

Dorsey, Mifflin's play maker, fired a jumper from the key with 40 seconds to knot the score at 48 all, and added another jumper with 15 seconds that would have won the game for Mifflin.

But a Mifflin player had called time just seconds before Dorsey's shot was airborne, and Mifflin was forced to take possession of the ball without a score.

Dorsey worked the ball around the key in the final 15 seconds, but was pushed outside by the Circleville guards and had to settle for a missed 35 footer as regulation time ended.

IN the overtime period, Mifflin's offense charged into high gear as they outclassed the Tigers 14-3 during the 3 minute period.

Only Tiger field goal was Dan Graham's under the bucket early in the overtime.

Mifflin's Lonnie Robinson paced the frustrated Mifflin team with nine points in the three minute period as the Tiger composure cracked under the pressure causing inopportune turnovers and hurried shots.

Truett finished with game honors for the Tigers as he carded 7 of 15 field goal attempts and 7 of 8 foul shots for 21 points, carrying the Tiger scoring load.

He also nailed 5 of the Tiger's 20 rebounds.

Graham hit five of 10 shots from the floor and 3 of 5 foul shots for 13 points. He also collected 5 rebounds.

MEHALICK was 4 for 5 from the field at his guard position as he scored 8 points.

Valentine, top Tiger rebounder with seven, scored four points on two of four field attempts.

Morrison, one of the most prolific scorers in CHS history, missed all three of his field goal efforts but connected on two foul shots for two points.

Wolfe added a free throw to round out Tiger scoring.

Dorsey paced Mifflin with 19 points on six of 22 floor attempts and 7 of 9 free throws.

Range hit for 19 points on nine of 13 field shots and one of 4 foul line tries.

ROBINSON, who scored nine of his 14 total points in the overtime period, hit on five of eight shots from the floor and four of five foul tries. He also grabbed 10 of Mifflin's 30 total rebounds.

The Tigers hit a crisp 49 per cent of their shots from the field — 18 of 37 tries — as compared to Mifflin's 42 per cent.

But Mifflin attempted 50 shots, 22 more than the Tigers.

Both teams were nearly even at the foul line, Circleville hitting 13 of 19 and Mifflin canning 12 of 19.

Mifflin had 25 turnovers as compared to 19 for Circleville.

Circleville's season ends with a 14-6 record, while Mifflin jumps to 16-4 and plays 18-2 Granville in opening round matches of the Central District at the Fairgrounds coliseum Thursday.

Solons Ponder Secrecy Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional subcommittee is opening detailed hearings on government secrecy policies and information-handling practices, with three former presidential press secretaries as leadoff witnesses.

Problems of getting and giving executive branch information, as seen from the White House press officer's point of view, were due for discussion today. The witnesses: Dwight D. Eisenhower's news secretary, James C. Hagerty; John F. Kennedy's Pierre Salinger and Lyndon B. Johnson's George Reedy.

President Nixon's communications chief, Herb Klein, declined to testify "on the ground that members of the President's immediate staff do not appear before congressional committees," said Chairman

William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., of the House government information subcommittee.

"This is the first chance the public—and the Congress—has had to gain an historical overview of the public-information practices of those who govern our democratic society. We hope to lift the lid, however slightly, of the White House and executive departments to find out how the government information system works—and how it should work," Moorhead said.

In a statement prepared for the start of his panel's review of the government secrecy situation in light of the Freedom of Information Act, Moorhead added this would be "not a partisan effort—we seek an historical view, not a political view."

Moorhead said: "Call it government secrecy, news management, the credibility gap, or truth in government, it is a problem which has been with us since our form of government was established. It is a political problem, but it is not a partisan problem."

The 1966 Freedom of Information Act, the product of 11 years of studies by the subcommittee, "was not designed to solve all government information problems," Moorhead said. But, he added, it was an effort "to help correct a growing attitude that government business is none of the public's business."

Under the law, any citizen may see most government documents except those in nine categories of material exempt from this stipulation. Those range from defense secrets and interagency memos to files which if made public would invade a person's privacy.

Three former public-information officers for federal agencies also were called to testify today.

U.S. Warplanes Strike Inside North Vietnam

Laos Comes In For More Raids In Latest Effort

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes attacked two more anti-aircraft batteries in North Vietnam Sunday, and B52 heavy bombers stepped up their raids in neighboring Laos, the U.S. Command reported.

It was the fifth successive day of raids in North Vietnam and brought the year's total of strikes there to 80 so far.

The command said U.S. Navy fighter escorts bombed anti-aircraft guns in the Ha Tinh region 96 and 106 miles north of the demilitarized zone after they fired on U.S. reconnaissance planes. Results of the strikes were not known, but there was no damage to the American planes, the command said.

The U.S. Command reported a total of 11 such strikes in the four previous days and said the targets were all anti-aircraft defenses. The North Vietnamese Foreign Ministry in two statements charged that many of the strikes were in populated areas and killed or wounded many civilians.

Meanwhile, the focus of the B52 bombing campaign shifted from South Vietnam back to supply routes in Laos and Cambodia.

Although the U.S. Command does not disclose targets of B52 raids outside of South Vietnam, the objectives were believed to be the North Vietnamese build-ups which U.S. sources said are continuing along the western side of the central highlands and farther north along the border.

A brigade of up to 5,000 South Vietnamese paratroopers moved from Saigon to Pleiku, in the highlands, during the weekend to reinforce government forces in the region.

The South Vietnamese Command reported scattered, small-scale ground action Sunday and early today, with 39 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed and two captured, and government casualties of six dead and 15 wounded.

An explosion in a river convoy 10 miles east of Saigon Sunday morning sank three barges loaded with 300 tons of ammunition and damaged two escort vessels. Three South Vietnamese were reported missing and six injured.

Small Brazilian Town Is Important Religious Shrine

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer

APARECIDA, Brazil (AP) — Practically unknown outside of Brazil, this small town is one of the most important shrines in the Roman Catholic world. Every year 4½ million religious pilgrims stream into Aparecida to pray to a small statue of "Nossa Senhora Aparecida" (Our Appeared Lady), the national Patroness.

Despite its religious significance, Aparecida has certain disturbing aspects.

"Beware of Pickpockets," warns a sign posted in the small church where the tiny (15-inch-high) dark-brown wood image of "Nossa Senhora Aparecida" is on display. Many of the pilgrims are Brazilians with little formal schooling. They arrive by bus, car, train and on foot to pray before the little statue, usually to "keep a promise," in the generations-old tradition of coming to Aparecida in exchange for a past favor granted by the Virgin Mary.

Located in the southeast part of the country, between Sao

Paulo and Rio de Janeiro, Aparecida has a population of 19,000. But it boasts 104 hotels, rooming houses and flophouses. It also has 160 bars.

Bunched between the hotels that line the steep main street leading to the church are a multitude of trinket shops that sell everything from standard poses of Jesus to images used in voodoo-like "macumba" rites.

The town and the statue get their name from a discovery made by a Brazilian fisherman more than 250 years ago. (The word "aparecida" means "appeared" or "emerged" in Portuguese, Brazil's language.) Legend has it that one Joao Alves, while fishing in the Paraíba River in 1717, caught a little wood statue in his net.

After that, fish became unexpectedly abundant in the river. Everyone attributed the miracle to the "appeared" Virgin Mary. News of the wondrous statue spread, and by 1743 a small chapel had to be built to accommodate the people who wanted to pray before it. The present church was completed in 1888. In 1930 Pope Pius XI officially decreed the "appeared" saint as the religious Patroness of Brazil, the world's most populous Catholic country.

To accommodate the growing influx of religious pilgrims, a huge new church slowly is taking shape on the outskirts of town. Known as the National Basilica, it will have room for 35,000 persons in the main cathedral. The local archdiocese says it will be the second-biggest church in the world, after St. Peter's in Rome.

The church is being financed entirely by private donations. Unobtrusive boxes have been set for visitors to leave contributions. The Basilica was started 25 years ago, and church officials here say it probably will take another 20 years to finish it.

FBI Informer Continues Trial Testimony

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — FBI informer Boyd Douglas Jr. continues his witness stand narration today of an alleged plot by militant antiwar priest and nun to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger.

Before lawyers for the Rev. Philip Berrigan and six codefendants get to cross-examine Douglas, possibly by day's end, the government's key witness at the conspiracy trial is expected to explain what he got for his testimony, if anything.

The defense has characterized Douglas as a con man and an "agent provocateur," and hopes to expose him as a liar during cross-examination that may last more than a week.

Last week the defense made public a letter Douglas wrote to an FBI agent in October 1970 requesting a minimum, tax-free $50,000 reward, plus expenses.

"This figure may sound a little high," Douglas wrote, "but considering everything I feel it is worth it to the government. I will do all I can to help the government obtain enough evidence."

His letter indicates he collected some money before he was paroled in December 1970 from the Lewisburg (Pa.) Penitentiary.

About a week later he testified secretly before a federal grand jury that later indicted the defendants. Then he disappeared.

Douglas wrote his reward letter four months after he had begun to betray Berrigan, imprisoned at Lewisburg for destroying draft board files.

Douglas, at the time, was attending classes at nearby Bucknell University under a study-release program. Because of this part-time freedom, he said, Berrigan recruited him to smuggle letters in and out of the penitentiary.

IRA Denies Part In Bombing Which Killed 2, Injured 136

BELFAST (AP) — The Irish Republican Army denied today that it was responsible for the Belfast restaurant bombing that killed two women and wounded 136 other persons. The IRA accused Protestant extremists of trying to whip up public anger against the Catholic guerrillas.

Police said Sunday they believed IRA terrorists had planted the gelignite charge in the Abercorn restaurant Saturday. But a spokesman in Dublin for the Provisional wing of the IRA called the bombing "a deliberate act of terror against uninvolved civilians."

A spokesman for Sinn Fein, the political organization of the IRA's Official wing, said in Dublin: "We have consistently condemned attacks upon civilian installations and we would very strongly condemn this one."

As a wave of revolution swept Ireland, Prime Minister Jack Lynch of the Irish Republic appealed to the IRA to suspend its campaign of violence in Northern Ireland. But he made clear he was not accusing the underground organization of responsibility for the blast.

Detectives leading a manhunt for the bombers appealed today for "the slightest scrap of information."

Meanwhile, a man accused of a part in the bombing of the British Army barracks at Aldershot, England, Feb. 22 was scheduled to appear in court there today. Five women, a gardener and a Roman Catholic chaplain were killed in the IRA bomb blast, and the man was charged with murder.

He was arrested Friday in London.

Two other men have been charged with conspiracy in connection with the Aldershot bombing.

Parochial Aid Challenge Filed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-judge panel will be convened in U.S. District Court soon hear a suit challenging use of state funds to support non-public schools.

The suit, filed by the American Civil Liberties Union in Ohio and individual taxpayers, seeks to overturn provisions in the state budget for annual payment of $90 per pupil to reimburse parents of parochial school students for tuition costs.

Ohio ACLU executive secretary Benson Wolman said today a tentative trial date of March 24 had been set.

A Department of Education spokesman said the state Controlling Board will be asked March 20 to release funds for the first reimbursement payment despite the pending suit.

Controlling Board chairman James Leckrone said it was "obviously the intent of the board that the payments should be made." But he added board members would have to see the department request before they could make a decision.

The plaintiffs contend state money is being used to pay for religious education at "schools which discriminate in the admission of pupils and the hiring of teachers on the basis of religion and similar unconstitutional acts."

Among defendants named in the action are State School Supt. Martin W. Essex, the State Board of Education, the Department of Education and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The reimbursement payments for the first semester of the current school year are to go out this month unless the court grants an ACLU request for a preliminary injunction against the payments.

Second semester payments will be made in June unless the court rules against them.

Indian Agent Wants To Do Good For His 'People'

By KEN HOSKINS
Associated Press Writer

IGNACIO, Colo. (AP) — Indian agent Nathan Meeker and his companions were massacred 92 years ago by Ute warriors who resented attempts to change their beliefs and lifestyle.

Today, Meeker's modern counterpart, Leon Hopkins, tries only to improve the Utes' financial lot through agricultural progress.

Hopkins, 60, came to the Southern Ute reservation here in southwest Colorado 10 years ago because there was "a little more challenge to do some good for people."

"It took time before they would really accept me," Hopkins said of the early years. "I think one thing that eased the burden was that I was not young."

"I think they kind of figure that with age does come wisdom," he added, "and I had enough grey hairs."

In Meeker's day, the Utes were still hunters who wanted no part of farming. His plowing of a pasture for their ponies was the last straw.

Today, Hopkins is working with the tribe and a California chicken rancher to establish an egg production project.

"If I can set it up," he noted, "it will mean a better income for about 21 families" — significant on a reservation of 650 where the average annual income is less than $3,000.

He has other projects in the works, but much of his time is spent in counseling individual Indians about their crops and livestock.

"I think that they are a people who are as good as any you want to find," Hopkins said. "They're extremely nice to work with, but they have possibly not had the opportunities they might have had."

The tribe is building a motel complex here, and Hopkins says the Utes "would have to be considered more progressive than most other tribes of the Southwest."

The Utes are progressive economically and agriculturally, but still rather traditional in custom and religion, Hopkins, though, thinks this makes the perfect mix, because he believes Ute culture should be preserved and handed down.

"It's the same God," he said, "whether you call him God or the Great Spirit."

The Democratic contenders planned a busy last day of campaigning today.

In the Republican primary, President Nixon is expected to win easily over Paul N. McCloskey of California and Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio.

Nixon may also get some Democratic write-in votes — he got 5 per cent of them four years ago.

So will Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, who told several hundred backers in Manchester Sunday he plans to fight actively for the Democratic nomination in other primaries. Backers have conducted a well-financed write-in campaign in New Hampshire for the Arkansas congressman.

Police Investigate Unlawful Entries

City Police are investigating the unlawful entry of two Mound St. buildings Sunday.

Pranksters did an undetermined amount of damage after breaking into Mound Street school. The break-in was reported 7:40 a.m. Monday by the principal.

According to the Police report, the vandals broke a boiler room window and snipped wire holding the door shut to gain access.

They busted 6 or 7 ceiling tile in the gymnasium, ransacked the teacher's room and broke into four additional rooms where they dumped desk drawers and ripped pictures from the walls.

At 7:12 a.m. Sunday Police probed a break-in at Landmark Farm Store, 312 W. Mound St.

They found the rear exit door open and freshly chipped concrete, however, nothing was reported missing.

An important message for people who prepare their own income tax returns.

Maybe you've been cheating yourself all these years.

Every year, between January and April, millions of people sit down to do battle with Uncle Sam. Some are "self styled" accountants. Others think they can save a few dollars doing it themselves—so why not.

The sad truth is, however, no matter what their reason was for starting, many of them end the same. On the short end.

You see, when it comes to income taxes, amateurs should depend on H&R Block. We have all the facilities to help you make "income tax time" a pleasant experience. To begin with, H&R Block now has over 6,000 conveniently located offices manned by thousands of specially trained personnel who are anxious to help you. They'll sit you down over a free cup of coffee and show you some things about your income tax that you might never have known existed. For example, do you know all about deductions for child care or casualty losses? And maybe you aren't aware that if your income increased last year, you may be able to save tax dollars by "income averaging."

Well, when it comes to income taxes, H&R Block is aware of just about everything because we're a company that eats, sleeps, and drinks tax returns 365 days a year.

Yes, maybe you can save a couple of bucks by doing your own return but it really may be costing you a lot more by not having your return done by H&R Block.

DON'T LET AN AMATEUR DO H&R BLOCK'S JOB.

H&R Block.

The income tax people.
